Brownell Reports On Reds

... To President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell in a report to President Eisenhower Sunday termed as "historic import" recent admissions by Communist leaders in the United States that prosperity and law enforcement have had a "highly disruptive" effect on their movement.

He cautioned, however, that these Red leaders will "fool no one" by their proposed new party line seeking to "divert public attention by now claiming allegiance to the United States and purporting to sever their ties with the Soviet Union."

"Nor will they trick this country into relaxing its vigilance," said the Brownell report, made public by the White House.

Asks Details
Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower asked Brownell to detail for him what this administration has done in the anti-Communist enforcement field, after seeing newspaper excerpts of a resolution to be submitted to the Communist party's national convention next February by its National Committee.

Hagerty gave reporters, along with the Brownell memorandum, photostatic copies of the lengthy excerpts as printed in The New York Times Sept. 23. He said the President was "very pleased" with the memo and the work of the government in this anti-Communist field as outlined by Brownell.

The Communist resolution said U. S. governmental prosecutions, probes and other activities against Reds were designed to destroy the Communist party. It said that while the party was not destroyed it had been weakened and isolated and is confronted with a "critical situation."

It also said the party is "not subject to any external allegiance or discipline either of an organizational or political character."

Significant
Brownell described as pronouncements of "unusual significance" 1. this "draft resolution" and 2. what he called an admission by William Z. Foster, titular head of the party in this country, in a Daily Worker article Aug. 26, that prosperity here had done more to restrict the growth of Communists in the United States than any other factor.

"These pronouncements," Brownell said, "are not in the usual category of Communist party propaganda statements because they are admissions against their own interest. In other words, it is not likely that these Communists have painted the picture of their present plight worse than it is."

Col. Sanders 'Good'
SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP)—Col. C. J. Sanders, head of the Nebraska Safety Patrol, was reported in "good condition" at a Scottsbluff hospital Sunday night where he is undergoing treatment for an apparent respiratory ailment. He became ill last week during an inspection of patrol offices in western Nebraska.

CANDIDATES' SCHEDULES

This is what the major party presidential and vice-presidential candidates are doing Monday:

President Eisenhower—in Washington.
Adlai Stevenson—in Urbana, Ill.
Sen. J. Lee Rankin—in Chicago.
Sen. Richard Nixon—in Washington.

Much Lower Temps On Tap

Much cooler weather is on tap for Nebraska Monday, the Weather Bureau said, with high temperatures to range near 68 in the northern and northwestern portion of the state and near 78 in the south-east.

Moderate to strong shifting winds and temperatures 10 to 20 degrees cooler than they were Sunday, particularly in central and western Nebraska, were to accompany the front.

The cold front, a rapid moving air mass, is expected to move through the state by Monday morning under generally fair skies, the Bureau said.

The air mass is very dry, the Bureau said.

Temperatures plunged to 28 at Burwell and 31 at North Platte and Norfolk early Sunday morning. Freezing temperatures were not expected for early Monday.

Highs Sunday were generally in the high 80s in western Nebraska with Imperial reporting 90 as the warm front moved through.

Two Slightly Hurt In Three-Car Crash At Waverly

Waverly, Neb.—Two persons were injured slightly in a three-car collision here Sunday night.

Tony Onnen, 18, of Hebron, was taken to Lincoln to a local hospital where he was treated for a deep laceration of the forehead. Onnen was later released.

Robert Lann, 18, of Belvidere, suffered only bruises, and was not treated.

Safety Patrolman Mel Whitefoot said Onnen was a passenger in the Laann car going east on U.S. 6. The car collided with the rear of another eastbound car, driven by Dmytro Witke, 35, of Omaha, which had stopped behind another eastbound car driven by Peter Kortum, 27, of 5323 Gladstone, Lincoln, which was also stopped waiting for a car to make a turn, officers said.

The trooper said Onnen's head was forced into the windshield by the impact of the collision.

America Should Reject 'Complacency,' Says Adlai

Naked Burglar Spends Chill Night Stuck In Hole In Roof

OMAHA (AP)—An attempted break-in ended Sunday in frantic, frigid and frustrating embarrassment for a Wichita, Kan. man. A shivering, grateful Albert T. Hubbell was taken to a nice warm police station Sunday after becoming stuck in a roof for 10 hours without any clothing on in 39-degree temperatures.

"I was never so happy before in my life to see a cop," Hubbell said.

Police and firemen had worked nearly 30 minutes to free him from the hole he had cut in the firm's roof. Hubbell told police he had passed out twice about becoming stuck about 11 p.m. Saturday in a hole eight by 12 inches. Hubbell said he fired three shots through the roof in a vain attempt to free himself. He told detectives he had kept three more bullets in his .38 caliber revolver "for myself" in the event he was not discovered for several more hours.

He told police he removed all his clothes except his socks, then lowered himself through the hole in the roof of the Midwest Carpet and Linoleum Co. He got as far as his chest, then stuck.
Ernest O'Connell, building custodian, stopped by to check the firm's offices as he returned from early church. He heard a pounding, investigated and found Hubbell's extremities protruding through the ceiling in a restroom.

O'Connell telephoned police.
As firemen sawed through two large wooden beams to free him, Detective Inspector Ernest Brown said, Hubbell was so delighted to be free from his self-made trap, he admitted three other recent burglaries here. He was booked for investigation.

Until World Freed

Demo Speaks In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson Sunday urged Americans to reject "complacency and indifference" until lands and liberties are restored "to millions enslaved throughout the world."

In a statement before a small but enthusiastic audience in the reviewing stand of New York's 20th annual Pulaski Day parade, Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, declared:

"We reaffirm our allegiance and our faith in the cause of free Poland and the restoration of the rights and privileges of her people."

Remarks Unexpected
While Stevenson's attendance at the parade had been scheduled, his remarks were unexpected. He spoke into a Radio Free Europe microphone, recording his words for broadcast behind the Iron Curtain.

The morning's rain had given way to bright sunshine as the colorful procession honoring the Polish hero of America's Revolution moved up Fifth Avenue.

For Stevenson the parade meant the approaching end of a six-day campaign swing through the East. He was to leave later for his farm home at Libertyville, Ill., to prepare for a trek to the Far West next Tuesday.

Campaign Quartet
Coinciding with his foreign policy statement Sunday, Stevenson drafted a quartet of top young Democratic campaigners—two governors and two senators—to help his drive for California's 32 critically important electoral votes.

The four will join Stevenson in Oakland, Calif., for the unique "flying porch" drive outlined by Stevenson's aides last week. The object is to saturate the state in one day with the Democratic story.

The four are Govs. Robert B. Meyner, of New Jersey, and George M. Leader, of Pennsylvania, and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota and Albert M. Gore, of Tennessee.

Disperse By Air
They will meet the candidate at a big rally in Oakland next Thursday night. Then on Friday they will disperse by air for a series of simultaneous rallies elsewhere.

Stevenson will fly to Fresno, while the others proceed to smaller cities within a hundred-mile radius for simultaneous rallies in early afternoon.

Stevenson then will fly to Long Beach for an airport rally, while the others will move into points within a similar radius of that city repeating the operation.

The exact itinerary has not been completed, but rallies have been scheduled for Santa Ana, Ventura, Petaluma, Merced, Burbank and Napa, among other places.

Meet In San Diego
The five planes finally will converge on San Diego for another big meeting. Stevenson will fly back to Chicago Saturday morning for a weekend rest.

Stevenson returned to New York from a New England tour early Sunday. Later in the morning he attended services at All Souls Unitarian church. Then he met in his Hotel Biltmore suite with Harry Belafonte, the Negro actor-singer, and Belafonte filmed a special TV appeal for the election of Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, of Tennessee.

One-Room House Burns To Ground

A one-room house located behind a home at 1118 Dawes burned to the ground early Monday morning, with loss estimated at $300.

The structure was tenanted by Joe Heppley, roofer for a construction company, who was not in the building at the time, firemen said.

The building was owned by Charles Elliott who lives at 1118 Dawes.

Dulles Behind Scenes

... In Suez Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles Sunday night appeared to be acting as go-between in efforts of the Western Powers to negotiate a settlement of their Suez Canal quarrel with Egypt.

Dulles talked privately with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain. He presumably informed Lloyd of what Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi told him in a half-hour conversation Friday night.

Foreign Minister Christian P. neau of France also is here for U. N. Security Council meetings on issues arising out of Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the Suez Canal.

Only Dulles
But of the Big Three Western foreign ministers, only Dulles has had a private talk with Fawzi. Fawzi will make an hour-long speech on Egypt's position to the 11-nation council Monday morning.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov is expected to support Egypt in a speech immediately after Fawzi finishes his remarks. Dulles will speak Tuesday.

In Cairo, President Nasser was quoted as saying the Council action on Suez will determine whether the United Nations wins world respect or "collapses like its predecessors."

The newspaper Al Messaa said Nasser declared in an interview that if the U. N. submits to demands of "big imperialist countries" there can be but one result—"collapse of the United Nations like the League of Nations."

France and Britain have taken the lead in asking the Council to approve the London plan for international control of the canal. Egypt rejected the plan.

Delegates look for the Council to finish general debate on the Suez question by Tuesday night at latest, then go into secret sessions.

GOP Caravan Leaves Lincoln

The Republican campaign caravan tour starts out Monday from Lincoln, moving through the Third Congressional District this week.

The caravan will take candidates and campaigners through the Fourth District next week, and later through the First and Second districts.

The tour leaves at 7:45 a.m., stopping first at Ashland for breakfast.

Eight towns are on the first day's agenda with lunch scheduled at Fremont and dinner and an overnight stop at South Sioux City.

The Strip, Canal Or Something—Politics Estrange Beautiful Roommates, Briton Moans

By EDDIE GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—The organizer of this year's Miss World contest ran into trouble Sunday with the Suez Canal crisis. He said it has complicated the usually pleasant job of pairing off roommates among some of the world's most beautiful girls.

"You think the politicians have got trouble," said Eric Morley. "They should hear from me."

Morley said that in the past contests his main trouble has been languages—trying to sort out the Miss World contestants so they will understand one another during the 10 days they are in London.

"But now," he sighed as he looked out over a hotel lobby full of shapely contestants from Tokyo

YANKS KNOT SERIES

The New York Yankees, powered by the home run bats of Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer, handed the Brooklyn Dodgers a 6-2 setback Sunday to even the series at two games apiece.

Today Sal Maglie will hurl for the Dodgers and Don Larsen will be on the mound for the Yankees. For details of the game, see Sports Page 7.

2 Killed In Auto Crash Near Springfield, Neb.

SPRINGFIELD, Neb. (AP)—Two persons were killed and five others injured in a two-car accident on Highway 50, about 3 miles north of Springfield late Saturday night.

Sheriff Ernest Arp of Papillion identified the dead as James Monroe, 36, of Omaha and his wife. The sheriff said their car was hit broadside at an intersection by a car driven by Charles Mumm, 21, of Earlring, Iowa.

Passengers in the Mumm car, all hospitalized in Omaha, include: Robert Kramer, 22, of Earlring; Gary Wilkie, 20, of Earlring; Don Hintz, 21, of Greta; and Willard Bishop, 18, of Greta.

Arp said Hintz and Bishop had hitchhiked a ride in the car containing the Iowans.

The Monroe car, driven by Monroe, was going north and the Mumm vehicle was westbound at the time of the accident.

The deaths boosted the state highway fatality toll for the year to 232 as compared to 233 at this time in 1955.

Gibbon Youth, 20, Admits Hit-Run Fatality At Omaha

OMAHA (AP)—A 20-year-old Gibbon youth, in Omaha visiting his sister, admitted to police Sunday he was the driver of a hit-run car which killed Lincoln Leverage, 45, Omaha, Saturday night.

The Douglas County Attorney's office said a charge of motor vehicle homicide would be filed, probably Monday, against Salvador

Martinez. The youth was being held on $2,500 bond.

Traffic Capt. John Barnes said Martinez, picked up because a chance maneuver paid off for police, had admitted driving the car which hit Leverage in South Omaha.

Spotted By Cabbie
Officers quoted witnesses to the accident as saying Leverage was hit by a green 1946 or 1947 Ford with paper license plates. They said it probably had a broken headlight and damaged front end.

The description was broadcast Sunday morning to Omaha cab drivers.

A cabbie spotted such a car and Martinez was arrested. Officers said he was headed west out of Omaha at the time.

Barnes said Martinez told him he purchased the car Saturday morning. Leverage was knocked about 80 feet by the impact. There were no skid marks.

Held as a witness was Frank Onate, 20, also of Gibbon, who told police he was with Martinez at the time.

Lincolnite Named Head Of Nebraska Real Estate Assn.

OMAHA (AP)—Don E. Dixon of Lincoln was elected president of the Nebraska Real Estate Assn. at the organization's convention here.

Officers re-elected at the convention included: Harry J. Bull of Lincoln, executive vice president; Earle Vincent Johnson of Lincoln, vice president; William J. Burke of Lincoln, treasurer.

Hargleroad and Johnson were nominated as directors of the National Real Estate Board.

600 ATTEND FIRST SERVICES IN NEW HOLLAND CHURCH

Lincoln Star Special
HOLLAND, Neb.—More than 600 persons attended the first services in the new Reformed Church of America here Sunday.

Morning and afternoon services were held, the Rev. D. J. Kolenbrander said, and the $115,000 structure was nearly filled for both. The church replaces a frame church which burned to the ground in May, 1955.

The congregation used collapsible chairs Sunday as the interior of the church will not be completed until some time in November. Since the fire the congregation had been meeting in a machine shed in summer and at a Fifth, Neb., church in winter.

The 145-family congregation prepared for construction of a new church by taking special offerings each month. These offerings averaged more than $1,000 a month. Insurance on the old church brought $23,000. The total in the building fund is now nearly $100,000.

The new church is 108 by 40 feet and has two wings. Facilities include a full basement to be used as a kitchen and assembly room. Sunday School quarters, choir loft and room, pastor's study and mother's room. New electric chimes will be placed in the modern steeple. The structure will be gas heated. An organ was salvaged from the old church.

The church's exterior is of red brick and concrete and the interior a natural finish with beamed ceiling. The Rev. Mr. Kolenbrander came to Holland three weeks ago from Steen, Minn. He replaced the Rev. Ira Hensink who retired after 11 years as pastor and moved to Lincoln.

The old church was founded 86 years ago by Dutch immigrants and their descendants still make up the bulk of the community around Holland. Church services were conducted in Dutch until about 20 years ago.

County School Enrollment Outside Lincoln Up To 2,801

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer
Lancaster County's school enrollment (outside of Lincoln) has reached 2,801 pupils—an increase of 43 over last year's comparable total of 2,758.

Sharpest increase, according to the county superintendent's figures, was in Garfield District 113 with West Lincoln a runner-up.

The Garfield enrollment—steadily increasing the past three years—now stands at 199 pupils, representing a 37-pupil increase. First week figures reached 208.

West Lincoln's pupil count of 155 is up about 19 from a year ago.

Gains or losses in other districts were reported as "normal."

The county elementary total was 1,442 pupils, up 29 from last year. High school enrollment of 1,359 represented a 14-student increase.

The Garfield district with an increasing pupil count the past three years has converted an original two-room school into six rooms. Two classrooms were added in the basement and a newly-constructed auditorium was divided into two rooms. A sixth teacher was hired at the last minute.

Need Desks
Mrs. Wayne Schofield, secretary of the Garfield school board, said that 50 new desks were still being awaited, but desks have been improvised with church tables and chairs.

Mrs. Schofield expects that the district "will hold its own" if no more trailer courts are located within its boundaries.

A public hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday by the County Board on an application for a new trailer court in the area.

Omaha Police Hold Man Who Admits Fatal Shooting

OMAHA (AP)—A 33-year-old man was held Sunday by police after officers said he admitted shooting Fred Lee Booker, 28, of Omaha in a cafe on Omaha's Near North Side.

Police said Edward Yarber walked into the police station shortly after daybreak and admitted shooting Booker twice with a .12 gauge shotgun.

Detectives quoted Yarber as saying the victim had started a dispute in the cafe. Booker, according to Yarber, pulled a small knife and cut him over the right eye.

Yarber told detectives he got the shotgun from his car and fired when a bystander tried to give Booker a revolver. Detectives said neither a knife nor a revolver was found after the killing.

Hubbell told police he had passed out twice about becoming stuck about 11 p.m. Saturday in a hole eight by 12 inches.

Hubbell said he fired three shots through the roof in a vain attempt to free himself. He told detectives he had kept three more bullets in his .38 caliber revolver "for myself" in the event he was not discovered for several more hours.

He told police he removed all his clothes except his socks, then lowered himself through the hole in the roof of the Midwest Carpet and Linoleum Co. He got as far as his chest, then stuck.

Ernest O'Connell, building custodian, stopped by to check the firm's offices as he returned from early church. He heard a pounding, investigated and found Hubbell's extremities protruding through the ceiling in a restroom.

O'Connell telephoned police. As firemen sawed through two large wooden beams to free him, Detective Inspector Ernest Brown said Hubbell was so delighted to be free from his self-made trap, he admitted three other recent burglaries here. He was booked for investigation.

Dulles Behind Scenes

... In Suez Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles Sunday night appeared to be acting as go-between in efforts of the Western Powers to negotiate a settlement of their Suez Canal quarrel with Egypt.

Dulles talked privately with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain. He presumably informed Lloyd of what Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi told him in a half-hour conversation Friday night.

Foreign Minister Christian Piquet of France also is here for U. N. Security Council meetings on issues arising out of Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the Suez Canal.

Only Dulles

But of the Big Three Western foreign ministers, only Dulles has had a private talk with Fawzi.

Fawzi will make a four-hour speech on Egypt's position to the 11-nation council Monday morning.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov is expected to support Egypt in a speech immediately after Fawzi finishes his remarks.

Dulles will speak Tuesday.

In Cairo, President Nasser was quoted as saying the Council action on Suez will determine whether the United Nations wins world respect or "collapses like its predecessors."

"U. N. to Collapse, If ..."

The newspaper Al Messaa said Nasser declared in an interview that if the U. N. submits to demands of "big imperialist countries" there can be but one result—"collapse of the United Nations like the League of Nations."

France and Britain have taken the lead in asking the Council to approve the London plan for international control of the canal. Egypt rejected the plan.

Delegates look for the Council to finish general debate on the Suez question by Tuesday night at latest, then go into secret sessions.

Politics Estrate Beautiful Roommates, Briton Moans

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—The organizer of this year's Miss World contest ran into trouble Sunday with the Suez Canal crisis. He said it has complicated the usually pleasant job of pairing off roommates among some of the world's most beautiful girls.

"You think the politicians have got trouble," said Eric Morley. "They should hear from me."

Morley said that in the past contests his main trouble has been languages—trying to sort out the Miss World contestants so they will understand one another during the 10 days they are in London.

"But now," he sighed as he looked out over a hotel lobby full of shapely contestants from Tokyo

2 Killed In Auto Crash Near Springfield, Neb.

SPRINGFIELD, Neb. (AP)—Two persons were killed and five others injured in a two-car accident on Highway 50, about 3 miles north of Springfield late Saturday night.

Sheriff Ernest Arp of Papillion identified the dead as James Monroe, 36, of Omaha and his wife.

The sheriff said their car was hit broadside at an intersection by a car driven by Charles Mumm, 21, of Earlring, Iowa.

Passengers in the Mumm car, all hospitalized in Omaha, include: Robert Kramer, 22, of Earlring; Gary Wilkie, 20, of Earlring; Don Hintz, 21, of Gretna; and Willard Bishop, 18, of Gretna.

Arp said Hintz and Bishop had hitchhiked a ride in the car containing the Iowans.

The Monroe car, driven by Monroe, was going north and the Mumm vehicle was westbound at the time of the accident.

The deaths boosted the state highway fatality toll for the year to 232 as compared to 233 at this time in 1955.

Gibbon Youth, 20, Admits Hit-Run Fatality At Omaha

OMAHA (AP)—A 20-year-old Gibbon youth, in Omaha visiting his sister, admitted to police Sunday he was the driver of a hit-run car which killed Lincoln Levinger, 45, Omaha, Saturday night.

The Douglas County Attorney's office said a charge of motor vehicle homicide would be filed, probably Monday, against Salvador

9th-10th Go 1-Way But Some Lincoln Motorists Don't

A few Lincolinites, including one policeman, had some difficulty Sunday as 9th and 10th streets were made one-way thoroughfares but no accidents had been reported by Sunday night.

Lincoln police said there would be a one-week courtesy period for motorists who accidentally travel the wrong way.

Several cases of persons driving the wrong way on south-bound 9th or north-bound 10th were reported.

And one member of the Lincoln Police Department coming on duty parked his car as usual on 9th St. and went into headquarters.

A fellow officer notified him a few minutes later that he'd parked his car facing north on south-bound 9th St. He hastily returned to the vehicle and reparked it.

Martinez. The youth was being held on $2,500 bond.

Traffic Capt. John Barnes said Martinez, picked up because a chance maneuver paid off for police, had admitted driving the car which hit Levinger in South Omaha.

Spotted By Cabbie

Officers quoted witnesses to the accident as saying Levinger was hit by a green 1946 or 1947 Ford with paper license plates. They said it probably had a broken headlight and damaged front end.

The description was broadcast Sunday morning to Omaha cab drivers.

A cabbie spotted such a car and Martinez was arrested. Officers said he was headed west out of Omaha at the time.

Capt. Barnes said Martinez told him he purchased the car Saturday morning. Levinger was knocked about 88 feet by the impact. There were no skid marks.

Held as a witness was Frank Onate, 20, also of Gibbon, who told police he was with Martinez at the time.

600 ATTEND FIRST SERVICES IN NEW HOLLAND CHURCH

Lincoln Star Special

HOLLAND, Neb.—More than 600 persons attended the first services in the new Reformed Church of America here Sunday.

Morning and afternoon services were held, the Rev. D. J. Kolenbrander said, and the $115,000 structure was nearly filled for both. The church replaces a frame church which burned to the ground in May, 1955.

The congregation used collapsible chairs Sunday as the interior of the church will not be completed until some time in November. Since the fire the congregation had been meeting in a machine shed in summer and at a Fifth, Neb., church in winter.

The 145-family congregation prepared for construction of a new church by taking special offerings each month. These offerings averaged more than $1,000 a month. Insurance on the old church brought $23,000. The total in the building fund is now nearly $100,000.

The new church is 108 by 40 feet and has two wings. Facilities include a full basement to be used as a kitchen and assembly room, Sunday School quarters, choir loft and room, pastor's study and mother's room. New electric chimes will be placed in the modern steeple. The structure will be gas heated. An organ was salvaged from the old church.

The church's exterior is of red brick and concrete and the interior a natural finish with beamed ceiling. The Rev. Mr. Kolenbrander came to Holland three weeks ago from Steen, Minn. He replaced the Rev. Ira Hessink who retired after 11 years as pastor and moved to Lincoln.

The old church was founded 86 years ago by Dutch immigrants and their descendants still make up the bulk of the community around Holland. Church services were conducted in Dutch until about 20 years ago.

County School Enrollment Outside Lincoln Up To 2,801

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County's school enrollment (outside of Lincoln) has reached 2,801 pupils—an increase of 43 over last year's comparable total of 2,758.

Sharpest increase, according to the county superintendent's figures, was in Garfield District 113 with West Lincoln a runner-up.

The Garfield enrollment—steadily increasing the past three years—now stands at 199 pupils, representing a 37-pupil increase. First week figures reached 208.

West Lincoln's pupil count of 195 is up about 19 from a year ago.

Figures 'Normal'
Gains or losses in other districts were reported as "normal."

The county elementary total was 1,442 pupils, up 29 from last year.

High school enrollment of 1,359 represented a 14-student increase.

The Garfield district with an increasing pupil count the past three years has converted an original two-room school into six rooms.

Two classrooms were added in the basement and a newly-constructed auditorium was divided into two rooms. A sixth teacher was hired at the last minute.

Need Desks
Mrs. Wayne Schofield, secretary of the Garfield school board, said that 50 new desks were still being awaited, but desks have been improvised with church tables and chairs.

Mrs. Schofield expects that the district "will hold its own" if no more trailer courts are located within its boundaries.

A public hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday by the County Board on an application for a new trailer court in the area.

OmahaPoliceHold Man Who Admits Fatal Shooting

OMAHA (AP)—A 33-year-old man was held Sunday by police after officers said he admitted shooting Fred Lee Booker, 28, of Omaha in a cafe on Omaha's Near North Side.

Police said Edward Yarber walked into the police station shortly after daybreak and admitted shooting Booker twice with a .12 gauge shotgun.

Detectives quoted Yarber as saying the victim had started a dispute in the cafe. Booker, according to Yarber, pulled a small knife and cut him over the right eye.

Yarber told detectives he got the shotgun from his car and fired when a bystander tried to give Booker a revolver. Detectives said neither a knife nor a revolver was found after the killing.

Demo Speaks In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson Sunday urged Americans to reject "complacency and indifference" until lands and liberties are restored "to millions enslaved throughout the world."

In a statement before a small but enthusiastic audience in the reviewing stand of New York's 20th annual Pulaski Day parade, Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, declared:

"We reaffirm our allegiance and our faith in the cause of free Poland and the restoration of the rights and privileges of her people."

Remarks Unexpected

While Stevenson's attendance at the parade had been scheduled, his remarks were unexpected. He spoke into a Radio Free Europe microphone, recording his words for broadcast behind the Iron Curtain.

The morning's rain had given way to bright sunshine as the colorful procession honoring the Polish hero of America's Revolution moved up Fifth Avenue.

For Stevenson the parade meant the approaching end of a six-day campaign swing through the East.

He was to leave later for his farm home at Libertyville, Ill., to prepare for a trek to the Far West next Tuesday.

Campaign Quartet
Coincident with his foreign policy statement Sunday, Stevenson drafted a quartet of top young Democratic campaigners—two governors and two senators—to help his drive for California's 32 critically important electoral votes.

The four will join Stevenson in Oakland, Calif., for the unique "flying porch" drive outlined by Stevenson's aides last week. The object is to saturate the state in one day with the Democratic story.

The four are Govs. Robert B. Meyner, of New Jersey, and George M. Leader, of Pennsylvania, and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota and Albert M. Gore, of Tennessee.

Disperse By Air
They will meet the candidate at a big rally in Oakland next Thursday night. Then on Friday they will disperse by air for a series of simultaneous rallies elsewhere.

Stevenson will fly to Fresno, while the others proceed to smaller cities within a hundred-mile radius for simultaneous rallies in early afternoon.

Stevenson then will fly to Long Beach for an airport rally, while the others will move into points within a similar radius of that city repeating the operation.

The exact itinerary has not been completed, but rallies have been scheduled for Santa Ana, Ventura, Petaluma, Merced, Burbank and Napa, among other places.

Meet in San Diego
The five planes finally will converge on San Diego for another big meeting. Stevenson will fly back to Chicago Saturday morning for a weekend rest.

Stevenson returned to New York from a New England tour early Sunday. Later in the morning he attended services at All Souls Unitarian church. Then he met in his Hotel Biltmore suite with Harry Belafonte, the Negro actor-singer, and Belafonte filmed a special TV appeal for the election of Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, of Tennessee.

Wheat Supports Not Unique

By RICHARD FELLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Of all the mis-information about the farm price support program for major U.S. crops — such as wheat — one of the biggest misconceptions in the minds of most Americans is that the United States is alone in the wheat support business, so officials of the Nebraska price support division of the Department of Agriculture recently said.

According to facts and figures from the Department of Agriculture:

1. All the major wheat producers of the world support the crop.
2. Of the 36 nations, outside of the Iron Curtain areas, two-thirds support wheat at a price higher than that of the United States.
3. The average of world wheat support prices is $2.51 as compared to the U.S. price of $2.21 per bushel.
4. Both surplus and deficient nations support their wheat.

In a foreign agriculture circular published by the Department of Agriculture, the following analysis of the wheat situation is given:

"Over 96 per cent of the world's wheat crop today is produced and marketed under price supports or other forms of official incentive and planning.

"Including the U.S.S.R., the So-

Nation	Price Support 1951-55	Nation	Price Support 1951-55	Nation	Price Support 1951-55
Algeria	$2.64	Greece	2.40	Portugal	2.85
Argentina	2.72	India	1.52	Spain	2.73
Australia	1.41	Ireland	2.39	Sweden	2.35
Austria	2.63	Italy	3.05	Switzerland	4.19
Belgium	2.56	Japan	2.61	Syria	1.51
Brazil	2.00	Luxembourg	3.02	Tunisia	2.64
Canada	1.40	Mexico	1.59	Turkey	2.49
Chile	4.50	Morocco	2.61	U of So. Africa	2.25
Egypt	2.18	Netherlands	1.86	United Kingdom	2.30
Finland	2.95	New Zealand	1.59	Uruguay	2.96
France	2.64	Norway	3.43	United States	2.21
W. Germany	2.83	Peru	1.83	Yugoslavia	2.16

Listed above are figures giving the price support levels of a bushel of wheat for each of the major wheat producing nations of the world. Figures for Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Po-viet Bloc in eastern Europe and Red China, such measures currently are in effect in countries which, in the aggregate, accounted for 6.5 billion bushels of the world's 1954-55 wheat crop, estimated at 6.8 billion bushels, and for virtually all of the wheat moving into channels of international trade.

"In the main, price support policies for wheat have as their objective the maintenance of producer prices at higher levels than would be the case in their absence.

"In the importing countries the primary objective is to stimulate increased production partly because of a desire for a greater degree of national self-sufficiency and partly because of inability to finance purchases of supplementary supplies from abroad as a result of foreign exchange and other difficulties.

"In the wheat exporting countries, on the other hand, the primary objective is to expedite the sale of surpluses abroad while at the same time assuring growers that their returns from such sales will not fall below the minimum guaranteed for the entire crop. That, in turn, involves some form of export subsidy.

All the last year for which figures are available. All of these nations support wheat prices, though each does it under many different systems.

Further, local officials said, the world wheat price, if there is such a thing, is set in large measure by these prices and the international wheat agreement, which gives each of the major wheat producers a share of the wheat market proportionate to their total share of world production.

Since the break down of what they called the "Old Liverpool market," which lost much of its significance in terms of trade over 30 years ago, world wheat prices have been set not on a type of "grain futures market" but rather on the basis of agreements and domestic support prices.

Dr. Behnken Has Praise For Trinity Lutheran Founder

Dr. John W. Behnken of St. Louis, Mo., president of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, spoke at 75th anniversary services at Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday.

Commending the late Rev. Fred Koenig, founder of Trinity Lutheran Church, Dr. Behnken told the congregation, "St. Paul saw the vision of a man in Macedonia calling come over and help us." Even so, the pastor from Malcom, Neb., heeded the call of your forefathers who wanted him to serve them with the gospel.

Dr. Behnken was the first in a series of special guests who will speak at Trinity Lutheran Church every Sunday until Nov. 25, the date of the church's founding. Next Sunday's speaker will be Dr. Paul Koenig of St. Louis, son of the founder.

In the 75-year existence of Trinity Lutheran Church, its membership has grown from about 35 members to 2,700 members, according to the Rev. F. H. Worthmann, pastor.

Delta-Wing Jet Shows Its Teeth

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force's new F102A jet fighter interceptor made its first public demonstration in an aerial firepower show Sunday.

The delta-winged craft described as "primarily a guided missile platform," was a star of the show which also featured the first public glimpse of the needle-nosed F104A Starfighter, a fighter interceptor.

The Starfighter looks closer akin to a rocket than a plane. It was shown in the Eglin climatic hangar. Monday it will begin undergoing cold weather tests in that massive laboratory. No pictures were permitted.

The Starfighter's top speed has not been disclosed but it is believed to be capable of about 1,500 m.p.h.

(A delegation of Lincolmites headed by Mayor Bennett Martin were among the 5,500 military, business, professional and political leaders from throughout the nation who witnessed the show.)

Legislature To Get Recommendations On Helping Mentally Retarded Children

Provisions for helping Nebraska's mentally retarded children, to be recommended to the state legislature, were discussed at a joint meeting of the executive board and legislative committee of the Nebraska State Association for Retarded Children Sunday.

Emphasis in drawing up the recommendations has been placed upon the trainable child, Mrs. L. A. Enersen, chairman of the Lancaster Association, said.

Mrs. Enersen pointed out that the only provisions the State has made for the education of the mentally handicapped is the state home at Beatrice.

Contributions

What other facilities there are, she said, are now provided by parents and friends in the opportunity schools that are supported by contributions and nominal tuitions.

Though we are fortunate enough to have these facilities, Mrs. Enersen said, there are still "over 3,000 retarded children—a conservative estimate—in the state, for whom there is no program provided.

It is with this in mind, she asserted, that the group is drafting a possible program of recommendations to the legislature, discussing " . . . many angles of the program for the retarded and existing problems throughout the state."

"Self-Care" Training

Cecil Parker, Lincoln attorney, and Dr. Marshall Hickey, professor of educational measurements and psychology at the University of Nebraska, addressed the meeting.

"The necessity for training retarded youngsters in self-care, acceptable social behavior and limited usefulness in their respective communities is urgent," Dr. Hickey said.

"The NSARC," he continued "is working on legislation that will benefit not only these mentally handicapped but the entire state, because it is cheaper to train them than to maintain them for the duration of their lives."

102 Persons Form Methodist Church

The formal organization of a new Methodist Church was held Sunday morning in the fellowship room of the parsonage of the Reverend Mr. Stanley A. Kruschwitz at 7140 Vine St.

One hundred and two persons attended the organization service and Dr. Lawrence R. Davis, district superintendent of the Lincoln District Methodist Church, gave the charter sermon, "The Church is the Body of Christ."

The Rev. Mr. Kruschwitz said the congregation hopes to be able to begin construction of the new church building next May or June in the Meadow Lane development at 72nd and Vine. He said estimates on the cost of the first unit to be constructed are about $50,000. He said part of the funds for the new building will be underwritten and the remainder will come from a fund-raising campaign to be conducted among church members.

The group will meet at the parsonage this Wednesday night to decide the name for the new church.

Campaign Leader Predicts Sorrell Victory In Omaha

Frank Sorrell, Democratic candidate for governor, will take a "sizeable lead" over Gov. Victor Anderson in Omaha this November, Ephraim L. Marks, Douglas County campaign manager for Sorrell, said. A tabulation of party strength in Douglas County two years ago showed that Democrats compiled a lead of around 10,000 votes, he said.

"It is entirely possible that we may have a margin of 15,000 registrants on Nov. 6," Marks asserted. "If we can give Sorrell a 15,000 vote lead going out of Omaha," he continued, "he will be elected."

Anderson is trying to "smile and glad-hand" himself into a second term. Marks said.

Wheat Supports Not Unique

By RICHARD FELLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Of all the mis-information about the farm price support program for major U.S. crops — such as wheat — one of the biggest misconceptions in the minds of most Americans is that the United States is alone in the wheat support business, so officials of the Nebraska price support division of the Department of Agriculture recently said.

According to facts and figures from the Department of Agriculture:

1. All the major wheat producers of the world support the crop.
2. Of the 36 nations, outside of the Iron Curtain areas, two-thirds support wheat at a price higher than that of the United States.
3. The average of world wheat support prices is $2.51 as compared to the U.S. price of $2.24 per bushel.
4. Both surplus and deficit nations support their wheat.

In a foreign agriculture circular published by the Department of Agriculture, the following analysis of the wheat situation is given:

"Over 96 per cent of the world's wheat crop today is produced and marketed under price supports or other forms of official incentive and planning."

"Including the U.S.S.R., the So-

Listed above are figures citing the price support levels of a bushel of wheat for each of the world's 1954-55 wheat crop, estimated at 6.8 billion bushels, and for virtually all of the wheat moving into channels of international trade.

"In the main, price support policies for wheat have as their objective the maintenance of producer prices at higher levels than would be the case in their absence.

"In the importing countries the primary objective is to stimulate increased production partly because of a desire for a greater degree of national self-sufficiency and partly because of inability to finance purchases of supplementary supplies from abroad as a result of foreign exchange and other difficulties.

"In the wheat exporting countries, on the other hand, the primary objective is to expedite the sale of surpluses abroad while at the same time assuring growers that their returns from such sales will not fall below the minimum guaranteed for the entire crop. That, in turn, involves some form of export subsidy.

Legislature To Get Recommendations On Helping Mentally Retarded Children

Provisions for helping Nebraska's mentally retarded children, to be recommended to the state legislature, were discussed at a joint meeting of the executive board and legislative committee of the Nebraska State Association for Retarded Children Sunday.

Emphasis in drawing up the recommendations has been placed upon the trainable child, Mrs. L. A. Enerson, chairman of the Lancaster Association, said.

Mrs. Enerson pointed out that the only provisions the State has made for the education of the mentally handicapped is the state home at Beatrice.

Contributions
What other facilities there are, she said, are now provided by parents and friends in the opportunity schools that are supported by contributions and nominal tuitions.

Though we are fortunate enough to have these facilities, Mrs. Enerson said, there are still "over 3,000 retarded children—a conservative estimate—in the state, for whom there is no program provided."

It is with this in mind, she asserted, that the group is drafting a possible program of recommendations to the legislature, discussing "many angles of the program for the retarded and existing problems throughout the state."

Mrs. Housel Dies; Rites Wednesday

Mrs. Amanda A. Housel, 75, of 819 So. 28th, died Sunday at the home of her son, near Raymond, Neb.

Funeral services will be 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Umbergers, with the Rev. Harold Walker officiating. Burial will be at Raymond.

Mrs. Housel was born at Itasca, Ill., and came to Raymond, Neb., in 1894. She was confirmed there in St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

In 1897, she married John "Walley" Housel. They made their home in Raymond, where they attended the Raymond Methodist Church.

After her husband's death in 1944, she made her home with a daughter in Lincoln. She worked in the Miller and Paine bakery for 11 years.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Reed Gammel, Mrs. Lloyd Biggs, both of Malcolm, Neb.; Miss Ethel Housel of Lincoln; one son, Orville W. Housel of Raymond; a brother, Frank Forke of Colton, S. D.; five grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Weaver Infant Dies

John Keating Weaver Jr., four months, son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Weaver Sr., of 2031 Morningside Drive, died Sunday.

He was a member of St. Teresa's Catholic Church.

Surviving are the parents; two sisters, Lynn M. and Elizabeth A., both at home, and grandparents, Mrs. Ella Miller of Broken Bow, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Weaver of Miller, S. D.

Harold 'Jit' Carr Speaks Friday At NWU Convocation

Harold Ford Carr, better known to Nebraska Wesleyan alumni as "Jit" Carr, will return to his alma mater Friday as the main speaker at the first annual Alumni Awards Convocation.

Dr. Carr, president of Iliff Theological Seminary in Denver, was an all-conference football center for two seasons as a Wesleyan undergraduate.

Dr. Carr will speak on "Discovery and Devotion" at the convocation. He will be the first of three alumni speakers who will visit the campus during the school year.

One hundred and two persons attended the organization service and Dr. Lawrence R. Davis, district superintendent of the Lincoln District Methodist Church, gave the charter sermon, "The Church is the Body of Christ."

The Rev. Mr. Kruschwitz said the congregation hopes to be able to begin construction of the new church building next May or June in the Meadow Lane development at 72nd and Vine. He said estimates on the cost of the first unit to be constructed are about $50,000. He said part of the funds for the new building will be underwritten and the remainder will come from a fund-raising campaign to be conducted among church members.

The group will meet at the parsonage this Wednesday night to decide the name for the new church.

Lancaster 4-H Club Affairs

The Willing Hands club met at the home of George and Ronald Hermone. This was the club's Achievement Day. The members turned in their completed project books. Members turned in their completed record books. Awards, plans and projects for 1957 were discussed.

The Green Thumbs 4-H Garden club met at the home of Josephine and Barbara Noyes. Record books were completed. A talent show was put on by the club members. Officers elected for 1957 are Carol Pickard, president; Jim Lohse, vice president; John Lohse, secretary; Josephine Noyes, news reporter.

The Grant Boosters 4-H club met at the home of Douglas Kirchoff. Rope halters were made during the meeting. Record books were turned in.

The Four-H Pals met at the home of the leader, Mrs. Wallace Lundeen. Officers elected are: Wallis Lundeen, president; Margaret Barnes, vice president; Carolyn Crouse, secretary; and Joan Walters, news reporter. Joann Kerns is scrapbook chairman and Audrey Kahler and Crissie Hayes are safety chairmen. Cheryl Marsh is recreation chairman.

4-H market beef clubs should be organized during the next week or 10 days if members expect to have a successful project.

September markets are highest for high choice and prime cattle. This kind of an animal can be produced only by beginning in October or early November with a calf weighing about 500 pounds. Full feeding from January 1 to September will produce a 1,000 pound animal which will meet market requirements.

Another reason for early organization is the October-November run of calves which provides the best buys and greatest selection. We do not recommend paying high prices for 4-H feeder calves. Prices in the vicinity of 21 cents for above average calves are about right.

Contact your county agricultural extension agent for assistance or information needed in organizing any 4-H club for 1957. Now is the time to begin.

Campaign Leader Predicts Sorrell Victory In Omaha

Frank Sorrell, Democratic candidate for governor, will take a "sizeable lead" over Gov. Victor Anderson in Omaha this November, Ephraim L. Marks, Douglas County campaign manager for Sorrell, said. A tabulation of party strength in Douglas County two years ago showed that Democrats compiled a lead of around 10,000 votes, he said.

"It is entirely possible that we may have a margin of 15,000 registrants on Nov. 6," Marks asserted. "If we can give Sorrell a 15,000 vote lead going out of Omaha," he continued, "he will be elected."

Anderson is trying to "smile and glad-hand" himself into a second term, Marks said.

Delta-Wing Jet Shows Its Teeth

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force's new F102A jet fighter interceptor made its first public demonstration in an aerial firepower show Sunday.

The delta-winged craft described as "primarily a guided missile platform," was a star of the show which also featured the first public glimpse of the needle-nosed F104A Starfighter, a fighter interceptor.

The Starfighter looks closer akin to a rocket than a plane. It was shown in the Eglin climatic hangar. Monday it will begin undergoing cold weather tests in that massive laboratory. No pictures were permitted.

The Starfighter's top speed has not been disclosed but it is believed to be capable of about 1,500 m.p.h.

(A delegation of Lincolmites headed by Mayor Bennett Martin were among the 5,500 military, business, professional and political leaders from throughout the nation who witnessed the show.)

Read any good books lately? Books in Review, New at the Library, Book Briefs and Crime Corner are interesting columns in The "Sunday Journal and Star."

Shirley Holcomb of Hastings received the Duhamel Medal for the best scholastic record in French. Diane Knotek of Lincoln was given the Ravel Medal for contributing the most to the appreciation of French music.

Dr. Behnken Has Praise For Trinity Lutheran Founder

Dr. John W. Behnken of St. Louis, Mo., president of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, spoke at 75th anniversary services at Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday.

Commending the late Rev. Fred Koenig, founder of Trinity Lutheran Church, Dr. Behnken told the congregation, "St. Paul saw the vision of a man in Macedonia calling 'come over and help us.' Even so the pastor from Malcolm, Neb., heeded the call of your forefathers who wanted him to serve them with the gospel."

Dr. Behnken was the first in a series of special guests who will speak at Trinity Lutheran Church every Sunday until Nov. 25, the date of the church's founding. Next Sunday's speaker will be Dr. Paul Koenig of St. Louis, son of the founder.

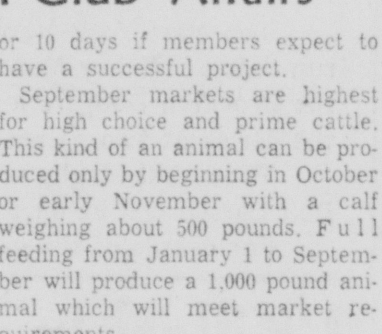

In the 75-year existence of Trinity Lutheran Church, its membership has grown from about 35 members to 2,700 members, according to the Rev. F. H. Worthmann, pastor.

Since the break down of what they called the "Old Liverpool market," which lost much of its significance in terms of trade over 30 years ago, world wheat prices have been set not on a type of "grain futures market" but rather on the basis of agreements and domestic support prices.

Further, local officials said, the world wheat price, if there is such a thing, is set in large measure by these prices and the international wheat agreement, which gives each of the major wheat producers a share of the wheat market proportionate to their total share of world production.

It Happened In NEBRASKA---

"Though the Overland Mail was slow by today's standards, its coaches made remarkably good time over the prairie. On a trip to southern Nebraska, a four-horse team pulled almost half a ton of mail and 14 people a distance of 14 miles in 52 minutes. Only 16 miles per hour—but pretty good for real, live 'horsepower'."

Speaking of "mileage," have you noticed how much further your entertainment budget goes when you serve guests a sparkling, refreshing glass of beer? For beer goes so well—with food, with conversation, with a game of cards. Be a congenial host. Serve beer, a beverage that belongs!

Nixon To Answer Adlai 'On The Spot'

By The Associated Press
Vice President Nixon said Sunday he would try personally to answer on the spot any Democratic "misrepresentations" by Adlai Stevenson of the Eisenhower administration record.

And Democratic national chairman Paul M. Butler said President Eisenhower is "trying to stifle discussion" of such vital issues as the manpower draft and nuclear weapon tests.

As the presidential campaign moved into its last four weeks before Election Day Nixon said Stevenson's "ill-judged, ill-timed, ill-phrased remarks must not go unanswered." He added that to the extent his campaign schedule permits "I intend to nail personally on the spot every distortion and every misrepresentation of the Eisenhower record" by Stevenson.

No 'Peculiar Knowledge'
Butler, in questioning Eisenhower's views on the draft and nuclear tests, said he did not think the President possessed "peculiar knowledge" of such matters simply because he has been president and commander-in-chief and that his prior background "gives him a military point of view" rather than one aimed at the interests of all the people.

Stevenson has proposed that this country halt its H-bomb tests as a step toward peace, with the proviso however that if Russia did not do likewise, this country could resume its testing. Stevenson also has suggested that it might be possible to eliminate the military draft in the foreseeable future.

Press Cited
On the latter point, Butler said "a large segment of the press" had not played up a further Stevenson statement that eliminating the draft might be done by making military service more attractive to encourage enlistments.

Eisenhower attended church, then spent a quiet day at the White House. He travels into Pennsylvania Monday in a bid for that state's 32 electoral votes.

with a nationally televised and broadcast speech at Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Nixon, in Washington for a breather between cross-country campaign trips, issued a statement which said Stevenson had adopted for his campaign "an operating method that is cut close to the political cloth of the man he has accepted as his associate in this campaign, Harry Truman." "He has created the impression that in a year of unparalleled prosperity we are on the brink of a depression," Nixon said. "He infers that in a year of peace we have no peace, he has charged that in a period of unprecedented progress toward the goal of equal opportunity for all Americans, we took 'time out' in the battle for expanding human dignity." Nixon also said that Eisenhower is more popular today than he was at this time in 1952, and that there is "a growing sense of urgency among the voters" that the Eisenhower program must be continued.

College Frosh Learn Traditions Of Schools

(Editor's Note: The following is the first in a series of stories on education and schools being prepared by Star Staff Writer Harriet Ashley.)

By HARRIET ASHLEY
Star Staff Writer

As freshmen on university and college campuses in Lincoln recover from the first month of school and the ensuing confusion, they are becoming aware of one of the vital points that makes up their schools—tradition.

Traditions have their special day at Nebraska Wesleyan University and that day will be observed Oct. 15 when freshmen girls appear in pigtails and backward blouses and the boys are notable by their bright green ties.

For freshmen who fail to "bow down" to Wesleyan upperclassmen a Mock Court is held and "punishment" meted out to those who disobey tradition.

Freshmen boys at the University of Nebraska can be recognized by their red felt beanies and girls new to the NU campus are seen wearing pledge ribbons and pins.

A girl is not a real NU "coed" until she has been kissed under the ivy-covered columns near the Coliseum, which just seem to stand around and look traditional.

First Week
The freshmen are not always the "unfortunates," but their week for entertainment, tests and get-acquainted sessions comes before school opens, with New Student Week at the University of Nebraska.

ka and Orientation Week at Wesleyan.

And a look to the future brings the biggest traditional event for school and alumni—Homecoming football weekends.

Thursday night a rally will begin the Wesleyan Homecoming festivities, followed by an awards convocation Friday and a chuckwagon feed Friday night for students and alumni.

The Plainsmen will meet their traditional rivals from Hastings College and a new "victory" bell will ring out each point for the Wesleyan eleven.

Homecoming Nov. 3
The Cornhuskers will meet the Missouri Tigers Nov. 3 for the Homecoming game and a homecoming dance will be held at the Coliseum.

At Thanksgiving time Union College students will be busy preparing food baskets to be delivered on Thanksgiving eve. On the Sunday preceding Thanksgiving students will bring money and food to the College View Seventh-day Adventist Church for distribution to the needy.

Before students go home for Christmas vacation the Wesleyan freshmen will be initiated to the four-day Christmas matins, the all-school Christmas sing and all-night parties at the separate organized houses.

Spring Festivities
The Ideal Plainsman and Plainswoman will be selected at Wesleyan, and Ivy Day will be held at NU as part of the usual spring traditions.

Union College will have the 51st celebration of the "Hanging of Golden Cords," honoring each graduate who has gone into foreign missionary service. The total has already exceeded 700.

And a "Spring Event" will be held at the University of Nebraska, never a "sure thing" if a panty raid outdoes a planned program.

But by spring the freshmen will be no different than the thousands of upperclassmen and nippy fall air will have to return before that "green" look reappears.

Stevenson Leads Poll Of Students In 10 Universities

WASHINGTON (INS)—Students for Stevenson-Kefauver said Saturday Adlai Stevenson easily won a presidential preference poll of 937 students at 10 "representative" universities across the country.

Yale—where the Democratic nominee was booed Friday night—was not included in the poll, which gave Stevenson 53 per cent of the total vote and President Eisenhower 43 per cent, with the remaining four per cent undecided. The 10 universities sampled were Columbia, UCLA, Florida, Harvard, Iowa, Michigan, North Carolina University Women's College, Notre Dame, Swarthmore and Wisconsin.

Bond Test Case Accepted By Court

The Nebraska Supreme Court has agreed to accept a test case on which the court's ruling could have far-reaching consequences.

The test case challenges the constitutionality of a Nebraska law which permits towns and cities to issue revenue bonds for construction or acquisition of buildings to be leased to private industry.

Attorney General C. S. Beck brought the action at the request of Governor Victor Anderson against the city of York and its officials. York is constructing a $350,000 building to be leased to the York Cold Storage Co. and the York Packing Co.

Attorneys for buyers of the revenue bonds reportedly are unwilling to buy the bonds until the constitutionality of the law allowing such bond issuances is upheld.

Lincolnite Is Delegate To CD Radio Alliance

Francis B. Johnson of Lincoln, state radio officer of Nebraska, has been named a delegate to the United States Civil Defense Amateur Radio Alliance.

His appointment was announced by Maj. Gen. Guy N. Hemminger, state director of civil defense.

Named as alternate delegates were R. F. Failing and George David, both of Lincoln.

The purpose of the Alliance is to enable amateur radio operators serving civil defense to co-operate effectively in arranging for improved service by establishing procedures and resolving problems affecting one, several, or all states.

2 Named To Head Membership Drive

Fred Hess Jr. and John W. Stewart have been named co-chairmen for the 1956 YMCA membership enrollment week. Membership chairman Warren H. Parker announced.

Active in Lincoln club and service activities in recent years, the two chairmen will plan and implement the 1956 drive.

Hess is the chancellor's assistant for public relations at Nebraska Wesleyan University. Stewart is an attorney.

Parker said that the 1956 membership drive will be held in November, and that plans to establish the membership teams are already underway.

Nixon To Answer Adlai 'On The Spot'

By The Associated Press
Vice President Nixon said Sunday he would try personally to answer on the spot any Democratic "misrepresentations" by Adlai Stevenson of the Eisenhower administration record.

And Democratic national chairman Paul M. Butler said President Eisenhower is "trying to stifle discussion" of such vital issues as the manpower draft and nuclear weapon tests.

As the presidential campaign moved into its last four weeks before Election Day Nixon said Stevenson's "ill-judged, ill-timed, ill-phrased remarks must not go unanswered." He added that to the extent his campaign schedule permits "I intend to nail personally on the spot every distortion and every misrepresentation of the Eisenhower record" by Stevenson.

No 'Peculiar Knowledge'
Butler, in questioning Eisenhower's views on the draft and nuclear tests, said he did not think the President possessed "peculiar knowledge" of such matters simply because he has been president and commander-in-chief and that his prior background "gives him a military point of view" rather than one aimed at the interests of all the people.

Stevenson has proposed that this country halt its H-bomb tests as a step toward peace, with the proviso however that if Russia did not do likewise, this country could resume its testing. Stevenson also has suggested that it might be possible to eliminate the military draft in the foreseeable future.

Press Cited
On the latter point, Butler said "a large segment of the press" had not played up a further Stevenson statement that eliminating the draft might be done by making military service more attractive to encourage enlistments.

Eisenhower attended church, then spent a quiet day at the White House. He travels into Pennsylvania Monday in a bid for that state's 32 electoral votes.

with a nationally televised and broadcast speech at Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Nixon, in Washington for a breather between cross-country campaign trips, issued a statement which said Stevenson had adopted for his campaign "an operating method that is cut close to the political cloth of the man he has accepted as his associate in this campaign, Harry Truman."

"He has created the impression that in a year of unparalleled prosperity we are on the brink of a depression," Nixon said. "He infers that in a year of peace we have no peace, he has charged that in a period of unprecedented progress toward the goal of equal opportunity for all Americans, we took 'time out' in the battle for expanding human dignity."

Nixon also said that Eisenhower is more popular today than he was at this time in 1952, and that there is "a growing sense of urgency among the voters" that the Eisenhower program must be continued.

College Frosh Learn Traditions Of Schools

By HARRIET ASHLEY
Star Staff Writer

As freshmen on university and college campuses in Lincoln recover from the first month of school and the ensuing confusion, they are becoming aware of one of the vital points that makes up their schools—tradition.

Traditions have their special day at Nebraska Wesleyan University and that day will be observed Oct. 18 when freshmen girls appear in pigtails and backward blouses and the boys are notable by their bright green ties.

For freshmen who fail to "bow down" to Wesleyan upperclassmen a Mock Court is held and "punishment" meted out to those who disobey tradition.

Freshmen boys at the University of Nebraska can be recognized by their red felt beanies and girls new to the NU campus are seen wearing pledge ribbons and pins.

A girl is not a real NU "coed" until she has been kissed under the ivy-covered columns near the Coliseum, which just seem to stand around and look traditional.

First Week
The freshmen are not always the "unfortunates," but their week for entertainment, tests and get-acquainted sessions comes before school opens, with New Student Week at the University of Nebraska.

ka and Orientation Week at Wesleyan.

And a look to the future brings the biggest traditional event for school and alumni—Homecoming football weekends.

Thursday night a rally will begin the Wesleyan Homecoming festivities, followed by an awards convocation Friday and a chuckwagon feed Friday night for students and alumni.

The Plainsmen will meet their traditional rivals from Hastings College and a new "victory" bell will ring out each point for the Wesleyan eleven.

Homecoming Nov. 3
The Cornhuskers will meet the Missouri Tigers Nov. 3 for the Homecoming game and a homecoming dance will be held at the Coliseum.

At Thanksgiving time Union College students will be busy preparing food baskets to be delivered on Thanksgiving eve. On the Sunday preceding Thanksgiving students will bring money and food to the College View Seventh-day Adventist Church for distribution to the needy.

Before students go home for Christmas vacation the Wesleyan freshmen will be initiated to the four-day Christmas matins, the all-school Christmas sing and all-night parties at the separate organized houses.

Spring Festivities
The Ideal Plainsman and Plainswoman will be selected at Wesleyan and Ivy Day will be held at NU as part of the usual spring traditions.

Union College will have the 51st celebration of the "Hanging of Golden Cords," honoring each graduate who has gone into foreign missionary service. The total has already exceeded 700.

And a "Spring Event" will be held at the University of Nebraska, never a "sure thing" if a panty raid outdoes a planned program.

By spring the freshmen will be no different than the thousands of upperclassmen and nippy fall air will have to return before that "green" look re-appears.

Stevenson Leads Poll Of Students In 10 Universities

WASHINGTON (INS)—Students for Stevenson-Kefauver said Saturday Adlai Stevenson easily won a presidential preference poll of 997 students at 10 "representative" universities across the country.

Yale—where the Democratic nominee was booted Friday night—was not included in the poll, which gave Stevenson 53 per cent of the total vote and President Eisenhower 43 per cent, with the remaining four per cent undecided.

The 10 universities sampled were Columbia, UCLA, Florida, Harvard, Iowa, Michigan, North Carolina University Women's College, Notre Dame, Swarthmore and Wisconsin.

Bond Test Case Accepted By Court

The Nebraska Supreme Court has agreed to accept a test case on which the court's ruling could have far-reaching consequences.

The test case challenges the constitutionality of a Nebraska law which permits towns and cities to issue revenue bonds for construction or acquisition of buildings to be leased to private industry.

Attorney General C. S. Beck brought the action at the request of Governor Victor Anderson against the city of York and its officials. York is constructing a $350,000 building to be leased to the York Cold Storage Co. and the York Packing Co.

Attorneys for buyers of the revenue bonds reportedly are unwilling to buy the bonds until the constitutionality of the law allowing such bond issuances is upheld.

Lincolnite Is Delegate To CD Radio Alliance

Francis B. Johnson of Lincoln, state radio officer of Nebraska, has been named a delegate to the United States Civil Defense Amateur Radio Alliance.

His appointment was announced by Maj. Gen. Guy N. Henninger, state director of civil defense.

Named as alternate delegates were R. F. Failing and George David, both of Lincoln.

The purpose of the Alliance is to enable amateur radio operators serving civil defense to co-operate effectively in arranging for improved service by establishing procedures and resolving problems affecting one, several, or all states.

Why "The Bad Seed" is recommended for Adults only:

We believe motion pictures are for everybody. However, the theme of "The Bad Seed" is so special (it has never before been attempted on the screen)—its intimate probings so sensational (they will shock some)—this motion picture may not be suitable for younger people without worldly experience.

As unusual, and unusually gripping entertainment, "The Bad Seed" is being seen by a wide audience—but we believe it is best that only adults attend.

A Dog Named 'Cissy'

The closing day of the week was eventful if for no other reason than it was Cissy's twelfth birthday. Cissy, for those who may not know, is a very wonderful golden haired cocker spaniel which has been the family pet after finding a new home at the tender age of six weeks.

The old saying is that a dog is man's best friend.

For proof of it one need only point to Cissy, a gentle, tender-hearted little animal. If any member of the family fails to reach home when darkness closes in Cissy could be depended upon to be at the head of the stairs waiting patiently the arrival of whoever may be missing. This little dog never rests until all the family is home and accounted for. Then she will take her place at the feet of the head of the household, happy again, and at peace with the world.

This last year has seen such a slowing down. For a dog she has reached a ripe maturity. A heart that has never known fear seemingly at any time has been revealing evidence of being overtaxed. Her owner at least utilized the happy birthday occasion Saturday to wish Cissy many happy returns of the day. This is to report that she seemed to understand. She seems to grasp what those around her say.

Still Have Water Reserves

There was comfort if no immediate relief in the comments of State Geologist E. C. Reed on the declining state of Nebraska's water table.

Reed allayed fears that the extensive development of well water irrigation is the chief villain in the drop of Nebraska's ground water levels. He said 75 per cent of the trouble is due to continuing drought.

It would indeed be serious if Nebraska were brought face to face with the fact that it had passed the point of safe return in its only real defense against dry years. It would be serious because Nebraska under the restriction of the current farm program is experiencing critical years economically whatever the weather or rainfall. With drought added there is little good that can be said for the state's agricultural future unless it is said in greater and more dependable production such as can only be achieved by drawing upon the state's water reserves.

There is no reason, Reed advised, why Nebraska should not continue developing irrigation wells. His figures back him up. Nebraska drilled 3,136 wells last year to bring its total to 14,998. Since 1951 when the state's precipitation was 7.75 inches above normal there have been continuing deficiencies in rainfall—1.92 in 1952, 2.41 in 1953, 3.19 in 1954 and 5.53 in 1955. Yet measurements in 1954 showed that ground water levels were but .19 of a foot below median and by the end of 1955 were but .35 of a foot under median.

The magnitude of Nebraska's ground water supply is indicated by the estimate that 1 1/2 million acre feet of ground water are being used annually.

'Parity in The Marketplace'

On another page of this morning's Star Farm Writer Dick Fellman has a story of unusual significance. He was one of those who headed the charge in the twenties. Back in those years if Mr. McMullen had been willing to be a "yes" man there has been some basis for believing that he might have been appointed to the cabinet post which Mr. Benson now fills. This is not to suggest that Benson is a "yes" man. No one, however wrong he may be, could cling to his position with more tenacity than Mr. Benson. He may seem to give a little ground in the face of the heavy pressures upon him but if he does it is grudgingly given and only because there is no other way out. Adam McMullen was a pioneer leader in the old McNary-Haugen battle. A loyal party man, a staunch Republican, nevertheless when the chips were down in the thirties the welfare of the American farmer as he saw it meant infinitely more to him than partisanship. This nation could use more like him—more men of the stripe of former Governor McMullen and former governor Dan Turner of Iowa, both of whom had their fill of Benson and President Eisenhower, and have bolted their party.

nificance. Drawing his facts from information from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, of which Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is head man, he reveals that 93 per cent of all marketable wheat grown in the world receives price supports.

Of the 36 nations, great and small, figuring in this production, 24 of them maintain higher price supports than those granted in the United States.

And we think it is especially significant in the light of President Eisenhower's "parity in the market place" slogan and of Secretary Benson's persistent attack on price supports in general and parity supports in particular to examine one uncontrovertible fact that emerges from the Department of Agriculture's own listing of price supports internationally.

The fact is this:

Nations that have deficiency production, that is, those who cannot grow enough wheat for their own needs, find price supports just as inevitable as those nations which produce surpluses. None of the nations top with thoughts of finding parity in the market place. They don't dare.

Indeed, deficiency nations actually participate in the International Wheat Agreement which requires them to pay more for imported wheat than an open competitive market would demand.

If President Eisenhower and Mr. Benson are not deluding themselves they are parties to a great national delusion when they attempt to teach the American citizen that poor farm prices are primarily the result of over production and national surpluses; that grain subsidies are an American evil, that the American farmer will find his price-cost answer in underproduction sold in the unsupported market place.

Deficiency nations are not plagued with surpluses yet they support farm prices. They are realistic enough to know that food is a precious asset and that they must protect such a farm industry as they have from rot and abandonment; that they cannot decay the farm economy as a false service to other segments.

The long, embattled farm issue, which has become a paramount one in the current presidential campaign because the farmer and his family again find themselves the victim of depressed farm commodity prices, plus a devastating drought in many sections of the Great Plains states, is not new to Mr. McMullen. He was one of those who headed the charge in the twenties. Back in those years if Mr. McMullen had been willing to be a "yes" man there has been some basis for believing that he might have been appointed to the cabinet post which Mr. Benson now fills. This is not to suggest that Benson is a "yes" man. No one, however wrong he may be, could cling to his position with more tenacity than Mr. Benson. He may seem to give a little ground in the face of the heavy pressures upon him but if he does it is grudgingly given and only because there is no other way out. Adam McMullen was a pioneer leader in the old McNary-Haugen battle. A loyal party man, a staunch Republican, nevertheless when the chips were down in the thirties the welfare of the American farmer as he saw it meant infinitely more to him than partisanship. This nation could use more like him—more men of the stripe of former Governor McMullen and former governor Dan Turner of Iowa, both of whom had their fill of Benson and President Eisenhower, and have bolted their party.

We do not know what Secretary Benson was doing in those earlier years of great agricultural unrest. He was not among those present in the news columns when the American farmer faced its crucial challenge and farm people generally were in rebellion. For one so recently identified with the fight as Secretary Benson we trust he will not look upon it as insolent if this writer suggests that for a comparative newcomer Mr. Benson have people believe that he has all the answers. Stack him up against Governor McMullen or Governor Dan Turner and any careful scrutiny of the records of the latter two would suggest they have been through the war sufficiently to qualify as battle-tested veterans. They could be forgiven—Mr. McMullen and an Iowa who served as governor in Nebraska's neighbor to the east during the years of farm unrest—if one or both of them were to say to Secretary Benson that they have been through it and on the basis of firsthand knowledge and experience know a part of the score.

Secretary Benson is extremely handy when it comes to closing his eyes to reality. He has been saying repeatedly that there is no farm revolt. Notwithstanding his insistent denial of farm unrest he will spend the remaining period of the campaign in the Midwest farming states. He will speak in a number of Nebraska towns. We have a notion that Secretary Benson will not relish a suggestion that he and Governor McMullen debate the farm issue before a Nebraska audience, preferably a Beatrice audience. It should draw a crowd—a crowd big enough to tax the seating capacity of any hall available in this state. Because former Governor McMullen has been a valiant warrior for a program of price supports over a period of more than 25 years, because he has never wavered or swerved in his support of what he believes contributes to a sound, stable and prosperous American agriculture, we can think of no one better than Mr. McMullen to engage Mr. Benson in debate.

Why not? Secretary Benson said he was under fire and eager to meet his critics. He is under fire. One of his critics is former Governor McMullen, reluctantly leaving his party in 1956 because he had had enough of Benson and Eisenhower farm policy. It might interest Mr. Benson to know that the mail has been pouring in on Mr. McMullen since the latter announced he'd had enough of the Eisenhower farm program.

Mexican Malaria

Neighbor Mexico to the south has declared all-out war on malaria—a scourge that annually has been causing 24,000 deaths there to say nothing of the debilitation of the many who have it but do not die of it.

The campaign is a good example of world co-operation for Mexico will be aided by funds and technical assistance of the World Health Organization and some 10,000 doctors will join in. That the campaign will get results goes without saying. Malaria now is a controllable ailment. In the United States it has become a minor concern due to timely and effective measures. For instance, the state of Mississippi as recently as 1925 had 411 malaria deaths. Last year the number stood at 20.

As progress comes to Mexico it is noted in such substantial movements as the anti-malaria campaign.

Telltale Leakage

The one millionth refugee from Communist East Germany has arrived in West Berlin, successfully escaping life under the Reds.

And it is interesting to note that while a million were finding their way into West Berlin upward of 700,000 more were finding their way into West Germany at other points. Added up the figures constitute almost a tenth of the population attributed to East Germany. Consider too that only those rather near to the Western frontier have much chance of escape and thus one can arrive at a rather fair estimation of how poorly the Red mantle sets upon the shoulders of Russia's satellite people.

Regardless of what propagandists may say the Russian effort to Communize Europe leaves the cool thinker unconvinced.

Ike's Farm May Help Win Election

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower's farm has attracted so many tourists to Gettysburg, Pa., that the local Travel Council is soliciting campaign contributions to keep Ike in office.

In a letter to businessmen-members, the Gettysburg Travel Council pleads for GOP donations, not for political reasons, but strictly for "our own self-interest."

"Although political philosophies are involved," says the letter which went to Democrats and Republicans alike, "it is not intended that this letter be considered a political solicitation. It is written after careful consideration and in the firm conviction that our own self-interest in the preservation of the prestige of Gettysburg and Adams County is of primary importance to us, and that the efforts each one of us puts forth are not only mandatory but are plain common sense."

The letter points out that "the eyes of the country will be on Adams County on November 6th, and one of the big stories of the election will be whether or not this country supported its distinguished neighbor and his program—and to what extent. In 1952, General Eisenhower carried Adams County by more than 5,200. Should he carry Adams County in 1956 by only that number—or by less—it will be the only unfavorable news story to spread itself across the country in the four years that the names Eisenhower and Gettysburg have been synonymous. Should he fail to carry the county, Gettysburg and Adams County stand disgraced before the world.

"Call it self-interest if you will," the letter adds. "That's about what it is. Gettysburg and Adams County have profited tremendously in dollars and, even more so, in priceless prestige - building publicity."

The Travel Council urged its members "to make sure that everybody votes November 6 and that the vote is in support of the President" and to contribute "to the Republican Finance Committee of Pennsylvania, which, in turn, finances the activities of the county committee."

This, claimed the council, "is an investment in Gettysburg's future."

Note 1—Gettysburg happens to be in a Democratic district, and Ike's Congressman is energetic young James Quigley, who has made quite an impact during his first term in Washington.

Note 2—There's so much interest in the Eisenhower farm that the biggest disappointment of ladies who visited there at the recent GOP rally was that they weren't invited inside the house. Everyone back home asked them about it later, but they had to confess that they saw only the farm buildings and grounds. (Mamie just didn't want too many folks traipsing over her carpets.)

New Stevenson Shows Attitude

ENROUTE WITH STEVENSON
—At the halfway mark of this campaign the new Adlai Stevenson widely billed at the start bears many resemblances to the old Adlai Stevenson. Both the virtues and the defects are in about the same proportion as four years ago.

But there are also important differences and perhaps the chief one is the candidate's attitude.

In '52 when he was "drafted" for the nomination, protesting every step of the way that all he wanted was to run for re-election as Governor of Illinois, his outlook was like that of millions of Americans. He felt that maybe the Democrats had been in power long enough. He was hopeful that General Eisenhower would make a good President, continuing the Truman-Acheson foreign policy and healing the internal wounds resulting from the bitter quarrel over Communist infiltration.

Today Stevenson is deeply and genuinely disillusioned with the Eisenhower leadership. He feels that the General in the White House has failed to lead in the great and critical issues that confront the country. As with all his views, whatever one may think of them, he has come to this conclusion less by partisanship than by the intellectual process of weighing and appraising. He believes that the President has failed in particular on the issue of segregation. His scorn for what he considers Eisenhower's effort to play neutral on this issue knows no bounds.

When it comes, however, to translating his convictions into terms of political attack the inhibitions of the Stevenson-of-the-past get in the way. Not entirely, it should be added. The Stevenson of '52 would have talked about the President's "Cadillac Cabinet." It is hard to imagine the '52 Stevenson telling crossroads listeners that it was time "to take the government away from General Motors and give it back to Joe Smith."

But the inhibitions of the thinker, whose hero in his own party is Woodrow Wilson, restrain him more often than not from making the sweeping promises for the future and the all-inclusive denunciations of the past that are the common coin of politics. In '52 this was a virtue that helped attract to him intensely loyal followers who talked with missionary fervor of his integrity and his high-mindedness.

But in '56 there are many who are saying that this quality is a handicap. You must not say, he is being advised, that the President is guilty of a "gross misstatement of fact." That does not fit into headlines. You must say simply that he did not tell the truth.

Stevenson is fearful that he will bore his audiences if he repeats the same political punches at stop after stop. The result is that he often talks too long and too learnedly for the crowds that gather during the day to see him and cheer him. To put Indo-China and Korea in a 10-minute train-side talk is to risk merely confusing the audience.

"I wish I had time to talk with you about the great problems that confront us," the candidate says. "I often think of what Woodrow Wilson said with respect to this kind of campaigning. He said that to make a ten-minute political talk is merely to perpetrate a compound fracture of the truth."

This is the conscientious Stevenson, reluctant to compress complex issues into the easy oversimplification of the political stump speaker. It is the reason that Harry Truman—who told the farmers in the course of his whistle-stopping saga of 1948 that they should take their pitchforks to the Republicans—feels that Stevenson is not a fighter.

Coupled with Stevenson's conscientiousness is his self-effacement. Modesty, reticence, by whatever name it is called, it comes out when he tells his listeners that he is surprised to see so many of them out to hear him. (Copyright 1956, by UP Syndicate, Inc.)

Russians To See Election U.S. Way

NEW YORK (INS) — John Foster Dulles scored a bullseye with his proposal, since accepted, that the Russians send a group of observers over here November 6 to see what a free and unfettered election looks like.

No matter how dedicated these Communist visitors are, they will take back with them an indelible memory of free people voting freely for free candidates in a free election year.

The contrast with their own regimented, rigged elections should be striking enough to give them pause and doubt which could conceivably express itself in a way that would interest the world.

It would be fine, I think, if the state department asked Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, last free premier of Poland, to accompany the Communist group as it makes the rounds of polling places and sees the end of the campaign for office. Mr. Mikolajczyk could embellish the tour by pointing out that when the Reds took over his country they did so under the guise of a "free and unfettered" election (which Poles had been promised by Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt) but they introduced certain improvements.

For example, hundreds of candidates for office who opposed Soviet rule were jailed just before the election. Some were shot. Every device was used to force people to vote for the Communist candidate in each race.

Whole blocks of apartment houses were emptied in Warsaw and their people marched off to the poll, with music and sub-machine guns, to vote the straight party ticket. A man who would compare in this country to an independent suddenly found himself without his food ration ticket, or his family moved into a foul room with two other groups.

Even in the face of all this the great courageous heart of Poland responded stoutly. People by the thousands found ways and means of voting against the Communies, though it might mean the end of them. Eventually, the Reds had to throw free votes in the River to make the final figures palatable to Moscow.

Mr. Mikolajczyk would be an admirable guide for the visiting Russians. He won't get the bid, of course. The State Department will want to do nothing more vigorous than point out our differences by inference, not the direct approach. That's better than nothing. But I can dream, can't I?

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Charter Group Views Problems

The Charter Revision Committee at its last Tuesday meeting was given many things to consider by the various city department heads. The subjects discussed fell generally into one of two categories, very advisable or questionable.

Among the latter must be included Public Works Director D. L. Erickson's proposals for authority for the city utilities to issue revenue bonds without a vote of the people and authority to make deferred assessments on utility improvements.

If the charter proposal, when completed, seeks to permit the utilities to issue bonds in any amount at will, that one issue could well defeat the entire charter. There is very good reason to doubt the need of such authority.

Lincoln voters have demonstrated in the past that when faced with sound financing proposals, they exercise sound judgment; and approve the needed bond issue. Bond issues which have been defeated at the polls in the past were so treated because the people were not convinced of their need.

If Lincoln's utilities had the authority to issue bonds as they pleased, it is very doubtful if the city would have gotten as much as it has out of its $6.5 million bond program voted in 1953. Unlimited financing authority simply does not produce the economy that comes from a strict budget. Should authority to issue revenue bonds without a vote of the people be given to the utilities, there should at least be a debt limit beyond which the utilities cannot go.

There are convincing arguments in favor of deferred assessments but there are drawbacks as well. It is argued that to reach some areas with utilities, water lines must pass through agricultural land which derives no benefit from the line and thus cannot be assessed for its cost.

The idea of deferred assessments is to permit the city to charge this agricultural land for the improvement at some future time when it does make use of the service. The trouble is that a great deal of public funds can be tied up in deferred assessments with no guarantee that they will ever be recovered.

Sanitary District 1 was given authority by the State Legislature nearly two years ago to use the deferred assessment method. At this time the district has more than $20,000 tied up in such assessments with no idea of when it will get its money back, if ever.

In the case of extending water mains by such a method, a disorderly growth of the city would also be encouraged. It would encourage developers to build in new areas far removed from present city development. The City Planning Commission has often pointed out the extra costs to a city of such developments which leave large open areas from which the expense of city services cannot be recovered.

Not one single case can be recalled at this time where problems now existing could be settled with the deferred assessment method. West O has not been forgotten either, where if such assessments could be made, they could not be recovered in a century.

It is impossible to see how deferred assessments would do much more than add to the cost of government. It cannot be denied that such assessments represent a substantial investment on the part of the city for which there is no return.

This investment in deferred assessments must be taken from the revenue of the subdivision which makes it. In the case of the sanitary district, the investment comes from tax funds and in the case of city utilities, it would come from sales income. If this would not mean higher taxes or water rates, it means these subdivisions have an excess amount of money for which they have no need.

Another suggestion made to the charter group, this one by City Attorney Jack Pace, is difficult to classify but if interpreted correctly means that a person could have a direct financial interest in the affairs of the city and still serve on the City Council.

Pace proposed an amendment which forbids such a financial interest by any official in any contract to which the city is a party if the vote of the interested party is needed for the execution or performance of the contract. Under the Council majority rule method, the vote of no single individual is needed for contracts. Thus, an interested party could simply pass on the voting while the contract sailed on through with approval of other members of the Council.

If that is the case, Pace's proposed amendment is too broad. The problem has been that while not financially benefited, many persons have had an interest in city contracts which forbid them from serving on the Council. It would seem that concentration on the word, "benefit," in place of "interest," could do much to relieve the situation.

Editor's Note: Be brief. Limit letters to 200 words or less. Letters signed by a pen name or initials must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Letters represent only contributor's view.

Both political parties are agreed in common harmony: all blame the Russians planned it that way. The Germans know the facts. So do the French. They have broken away from the old time antagonisms sponsored by Anglo-Americanism. The old trade barriers are no more.

The world is divided unto themselves for world commerce. Mr. Eisenhower may know this, but for good and sufficient reasons will not admit it out loud. "Ike on the farm" says: "We freed peace-time agriculture!" For what purpose and how? "Recent developments prove that the clean-up part of our job is well on its way . . . part of that assurance comes from our new soil-bank."

What do you Republican and Democrat farmers think of that? I think Ike's sponsors have gone amiss and taken Ike with them. Here is why. Paying the farmers for not farming their land is playing right into the hands of all foreign farmers. On top of it all, our farmers are being paid, which relieves them of that part of taxation which the consuming public will have to pay.

We helped build up the foreign farmers; we taught them how to compete with us. Even the Russians, our bitter enemies, are invited to come over here and find out how to complete the job of utter annihilation.

Thinking Of Self

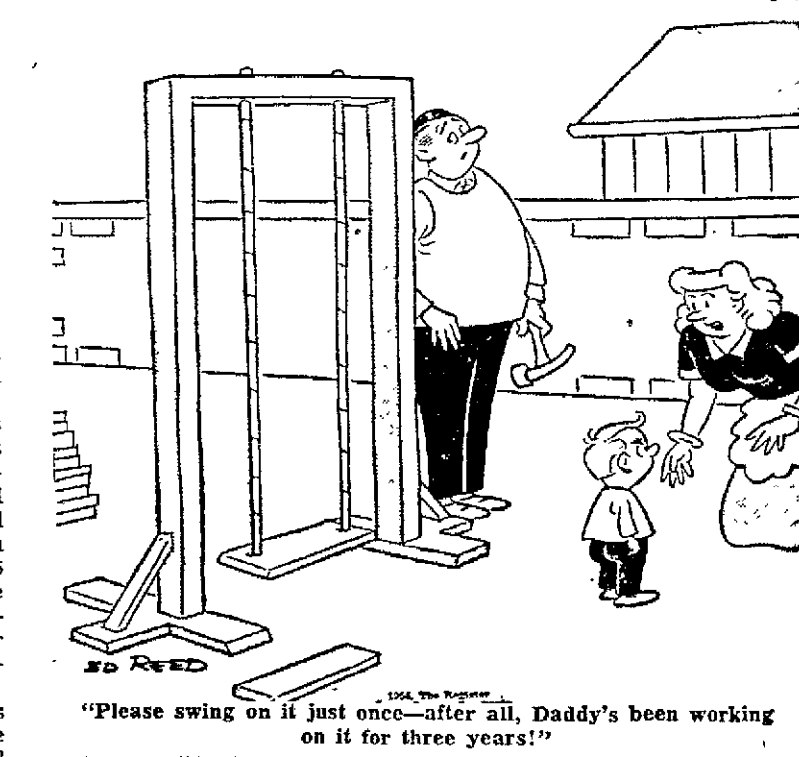

Lincoln, Neb.
To The editor of The Lincoln Star: I see by the paper that our three candidates for Governor have had a discussion. I am a Republican, but I go along with George Morris, Independent, and Frank Sorrell, Democrat. Our real estate taxes are getting extremely high and we should have a reduction in them.

I wonder if it isn't about time for the common people of Lincoln and the rest of the state to be thinking for themselves. When we go to the polls in November, why not vote for the men who are doing the things that will be a benefit to the common people? Why not think for ourselves when we vote in November? Whether we are Republicans or Democrats let's vote for men who have the interests of all the people at heart.

A Dog Named 'Cissy'

The closing day of the week was eventful if for no other reason than it was Cissy's twelfth birthday. Cissy, for those who may not know, is a very wonderful golden haired cocker spaniel which has been the family pet after finding a new home at the tender age of six weeks.

The old saying is that a dog is man's best friend.

For proof of it one need only point to Cissy, a gentle, tender-hearted little animal. If any member of the family fails to reach home when darkness closes in Cissy could be depended upon to be at the head of the stairs waiting patiently the arrival of whoever may be missing. This little dog never rests until all the family is home and accounted for. Then she will take her place at the feet of the head of the household, happy again, and at peace with the world.

This last year has seen such a slowing down. For a dog she has reached a ripe maturity. A heart that has never known fear seemingly at any time has been revealing evidence of being overtaxed. Her owner at least utilized the happy birthday occasion Saturday to wish Cissy many happy returns of the day. This is to report that she seemed to understand. She seems to grasp what those around her say.

Still Have Water Reserves

There was comfort if no immediate relief in the comments of State Geologist E. C. Reed on the declining state of Nebraska's water table.

Reed allayed fears that the extensive development of well water irrigation is the chief villain in the drop of Nebraska's ground water levels. He said 75 per cent of the trouble is due to continuing drought.

It would indeed be serious if Nebraska were brought face to face with the fact that it had passed the point of safe return in its only real defense against dry years. It would be serious because Nebraska under the restriction of the current farm program is experiencing critical years economically whatever the weather or rainfall. With drought added there is little good that can be said for the state's agricultural future unless it is said in greater and more dependable production such as can only be achieved by drawing upon the state's water reserves.

There is no reason, Reed advised, why Nebraska should not continue developing irrigation wells. His figures back him up. Nebraska drilled 3,136 wells last year to bring its total to 14,998. Since 1951 when the state's precipitation was 7.75 inches above normal there have been continuing deficiencies in rainfall—1.92 in 1952, 2.41 in 1953, 3.19 in 1954 and 5.53 in 1955. Yet measurements in 1954 showed that ground water levels were but .19 of a foot below median and by the end of 1955 were but .35 of a foot under median.

The magnitude of Nebraska's ground water supply is indicated by the estimate that 1½ million acre feet of ground water are being used annually.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Near the close of the week former Nebraska Governor Adam McMullen of Beatrice, elected and re-elected as a Republican by the voters of this state, was a caller at this office. He had noted that Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson intends to speak in a number of Nebraska communities, including Beatrice, the governor's home town. A shy man, not given to pushing himself into the limelight, nevertheless we have the notion that former Governor McMullen, long recognized as one of the most dedicated of spokesmen for the farmer, would not be adverse to sharing the same platform with Mr. Benson in a discussion of agriculture and of the farm problems.

The long, embattled farm issue, which has become a paramount one in the current presidential campaign because the farmer and his family again find themselves the victim of depressed farm commodity prices, plus a devastating drought in many sections of the Great Plains states, is not new to Mr. McMullen. He was one of those who headed the charge in the twenties. Back in those years if Mr. McMullen had been willing to be a "yes" man there is some basis for believing that he might have been appointed to the cabinet post which Mr. Benson now fills. This is not to suggest that Benson is a "yes" man. No one, however wrong he may be, could cling to his position with more tenacity than Mr. Benson. He may seem to give a little ground in the face of the heavy pressures upon him but if he does it is grudgingly given and only because there is no other way out. Adam McMullen was a pioneer leader in the old McNary-Haugen battle. A loyal party man, a staunch Republican, nevertheless when the chips were down in the thirties the welfare of the American farmer as he saw it meant infinitely more to him than partisanship. This nation could use more like him—more men of the stripe of former Governor McMullen and former governor Dan Turner of Iowa, both of whom who had their bill of Benson and President Eisenhower, and have bolted their party.

We do not know what Secretary Benson was doing in those earlier years of great agricultural unrest. He was not among those present in the news columns then when the American farm faced its crucial challenge and farm people generally were in rebellion. For one so recently identified with the fight as Secretary Benson we trust he will not look upon it as insolent if this writer suggests that for a comparative newcomer Mr. Benson have people believe that he has all the answers. Stack him up against Governor McMullen or Governor Dan Turner and any careful scrutiny of the records of the latter two would suggest they have been through the war sufficiently to qualify as battle-tested veterans. They could be forgiven—Mr. McMullen and an Iowan who served as governor in Nebraska's neighbor to the east during the years of farm unrest—if one or both of them were to say to Secretary Benson that they have been through it and on the basis of firsthand knowledge and experience know a part of the score.

Secretary Benson is extremely handy when it comes to closing his eyes to reality. He has been saying repeatedly that there is no farm revolt. Notwithstanding his insistent denial of farm unrest he will spend the remaining period of the campaign in the Midwest farming states. He will speak in a number of Nebraska towns. We have a notion that Secretary Benson will not relish a suggestion that he and Governor McMullen debate the farm issue before a Nebraska audience, preferably a Beatrice audience. It should draw a crowd—a crowd big enough to tax the seating capacity of any hall available in this state. Because former Governor McMullen has been a valiant warrior for a program of price supports over a period of more than 25 years, because he has never wavered or swerved in his support of what he believes contributes to a sound, stable and prosperous American agriculture, we can think of no one better than Mr. McMullen to engage Mr. Benson in debate.

Why not? Secretary Benson said he was under fire and eager to meet his critics. He is under fire. One of his critics is former Governor McMullen, reluctantly leaving his party in 1956 because he has had enough of Benson and Eisenhower farm policy. It might interest Mr. Benson to know that the mail has been pouring in on Mr. McMullen since the latter announced he'd had enough of the Eisenhower farm program.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Charter Group Views Problems

The Charter Revision Committee at its last Tuesday meeting was given many things to consider by the various city departmental heads. The subjects discussed fell generally into one of two categories, very advisable or questionable.

Among the latter must be included Public Works Director D. L. Erickson's proposals for authority for the city utilities to issue revenue bonds without a vote of the people and authority to make deferred assessments on utility improvements.

Bill Dobler

Sanitary District 1 was given authority by the State Legislature nearly two years ago to use the deferred assessment method. At this time the district has more than $20,000 tied up in such assessments with no idea of when it will get its money back, if ever.

If the charter proposal, when completed, seeks to permit the utilities to issue bonds in any amount at will, that one issue could well defeat the entire charter. There is very good reason to doubt the need of such authority.

Lincoln voters have demonstrated in the past that when faced with sound financing proposals, they exercise sound judgment and approve the needed bond issue. Bond issues which have been defeated at the polls in the past were so treated because the people were not convinced of their need.

If Lincoln's utilities had the authority to issue bonds as they pleased, it is very doubtful if the city would have gotten as much as it has out of its $8.5 million bond program voted in 1953. Unlimited financing authority simply does not produce the economy that comes from a strict budget. Should authority to issue revenue bonds without a vote of the people be given to the utilities, there should at least be a debt limit beyond which the utilities cannot go.

There are convincing arguments in favor of deferred assessments but there are drawbacks as well. It is argued that to reach some areas with utilities, water lines must pass through agricultural land which derives no benefit from the line and thus cannot be assessed for its cost.

The idea of deferred assessments is to permit the city to charge this agricultural land for the improvement at some future time when it does make use of the service. The trouble is that a great deal of public funds can be tied up in deferred assessments with no guarantee that they will ever be recovered.

Sanitary District 1 was given authority by the State Legislature nearly two years ago to use the deferred assessment method. At this time the district has more than $20,000 tied up in such assessments with no idea of when it will get its money back, if ever.

In the case of extending water mains by such a method, a disorderly growth of the city would also be encouraged. It would encourage developers to build in new areas far removed from present city development. The City Planning Commission has often pointed out the extra costs to a city of such developments which leave large open areas from which the expense of city services cannot be recovered.

Not one single case can be recalled at this time where problems now existing could be settled with the deferred assessment method. West O has not been forgotten either, where if such assessments could be made, they could not be recovered in a century.

It is impossible to see how deferred assessments would do much more than add to the cost of government. It cannot be denied that such assessments represent a substantial investment on the part of the city for which there is no return.

This investment in deferred assessments must be taken from the revenue of the subdivision which makes it. In the case of the sanitary district, the investment comes from tax funds and in the case of city utilities, it would come from sales income. If this would not mean higher taxes or water rates, it means these subdivisions have an excess amount of money for which they have no need.

Another suggestion made to the charter group, this one by City Attorney Jack Pace, is difficult to classify but if interpreted correctly means that a person could have a direct financial interest in the affairs of the city and still serve on the City Council.

Pace proposed an amendment which forbids such a financial interest by any city official in any contract to which the city is a party if the vote of the interested party is needed for the execution or performance of the contract. Under the Council majority rule method, the vote of no single individual is needed for contracts. Thus, an interested party could simply pass on the voting while the contract sailed on through with approval of other members of the Council.

If that is the case, Pace's proposed amendment is too broad. The problem has been that while not financially benefited, many persons have had an interest in city contracts which forbid them from serving on the Council. It would seem that concentration on the word, "benefit," in place of "interest" could do much to relieve the situation.

One Or Another

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: You know, in all my years on a Nebraska farm I thought that the Nebraska and Iowa papers were exaggerating as usual about the situation down on the farm. But I guess those characters who write those columns know what they're talking about.

I would like to know just what the poor farmer has done against the Almighty and the Republican administration that he deserves all this trouble? If it's not the heat, it's the cold; if it's not the drought, it's the floods; if it's not the boll weevil, it's the tariff; if it's not the cinch bug, it's the Federal Reserve; if it's not relief he needs, it's rain.

But even with all these troubles, I guess there is always one pest he's free from—that's the income tax.

SILAS BARNESBY

Revolt

North Loup, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: One news source has said that Gov. Anderson will not answer George Morris, which is quite right. The governor knows that the more he stirs up the Morris question, the more votes he will lose.

The people of Nebraska are in a revolt to oust the Republicans, from top ranks to bottom, including all Republican congressmen, too. The people of Nebraska are also in revolt against the Eisenhower administration, which has played into the hands of big business from the very first, with millionaires and billionaires in the saddle running the show.

CLEM N. MEYERS

Speed Governors

Lebanon, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Since there is so much said nowadays about traffic accidents, I would like to tell a solution I heard the other day. This man agreed with Alex Drier that we should have uniform traffic laws in all the states. He added this idea to Drier's suggestion, namely, that we should have a speed limit of 45 miles per hour. All cars should be equipped with a governor set at a limit of 45 miles per hour. This should be sealed, and it made a penitentiary offense for anyone to tamper with the seal except a federal inspector.

I would like to add my ten-cents worth. All automobiles should be given a license by the federal government and at the same time a liability insurance policy at cost covering the occupants of the other car—no insurance for the occupants of his car.

The insurance companies will give a loud squeal, but they have a throttle-hold on the people of this great nation. It is time this hold was broken or they will soon dictate all the policy of our government.

J. S. DAFFER

Farmer Can't Win

Broken Bow, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: "Peace on earth and good will to men." Who do they think they are fooling? Certainly not the farmers.

The farmer's sons and daughters are in uniform scattered all over the world, with our battle ships, flat tops, submarines and Air Force occupying almost every nation on earth. It looks to this writer, a farmer with two sons, who served three to four years helping to subdue Hitler and the Japanese, that it is stretching the truth all out of proportion.

Afternoon Wedding

MRS. HARVEY MARTENS

Spreading arrangements of white chrysanthemums, and lighted candles in seven-branched holders appointed the chancel of the First Presbyterian Church in Pawnee City for the wedding of Miss Barbara Colwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Barr Colwell of Pawnee, City, and Harvey Arthur Martens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Martens of Irroquois, S.D., which took place on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7. The aisles of the church were marked with clusters of white chrysanthemums caught with satin bows. The Rev. Lloyd A. Jackson solemnized the 4 o'clock ceremony, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Ross Thiemann, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Joel E. Babcock of Sidney, the vocal soloist.

Miss Rebecca Colwell, as her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Elizabeth Brinkman of Geneva, the bridesmaid, wore alike frocks of antique taffeta in the skymist blue tone. The brief-sleeved bodices were in the empire mode, and were designed with square, shoulder-wide necklines banded with deeper blue velvet that extended into deep back points completed with bows. The veils also fashioned the hair bandeaux which held in place the brow veils of frock-toned blue. Each carried a colonial bouquet of small chrysanthemums.

Donald Sprang of DeSmet,

S.D., served Mr. Martens as best man, and seating the guests were Joel E. Babcock of Sidney; Nelson R. Jensen, Jr., and H. Tracy Huston.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of pure silk peau de soie, and lace. Lace fashioned the long-sleeved, sculptured bodice in which a Sabrina neckline was patterned with pearls and sequins, and the wide skirt, completed with a chapel train, was given added buoyancy by a peat back. Her tiered veil of illusion was held to the head with a plateau hat dotted with sequins and pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Following a reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. Martens and his bride left for a honeymoon trip through the Smoky Mountains, and on to Washington, D.C. where they will reside at 1701 16th St. NW.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. Martens is a graduate of South Dakota State College, Brookings, and received his Master's Degree in public administration at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y. He now is working towards his doctorate at the American University in Washington, D.C.

Marriage Solemnized

Miss Mildred Knorr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Knorr of Fremont, became the bride of Verdel Daehling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Daehling of Ulica, at an early evening ceremony which took place on Sunday, Oct. 7. Lighted candles and bouquets of white chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the chancel of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Ulica for the 6 o'clock service, which was solemnized by the Rev. Victor Hoffman of Fremont, and Arthur Bangert, organist, played the wedding music. Mr. Bangert also accompanied the vocalist, Miss Irene Kruger.

As the matron of honor, Mrs. Darrell Daehling of Staplehurst appeared in a frock of sapphire blue taffeta completed by a full overskirt of matching blue net. Her headband and mitts of net were embroidered with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of blue-tinted carnations. Costumed identically in jewel tones of rose and yellow were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Henry Rasmussen of Fremont, Mrs. Ivan Cradick of Bayard, and the bridesmaid, Miss Birdell Daehling and Miss Donna Knapp, both of Lincoln. Pamela Harvey of Ulica was the flower girl.

Darrell Daehling of Staplehurst served as best man, and seating the guests were Maynard Reiling, Wichita, Kan.; Donald Tones, Ulica; Lee Landenburger, Lincoln; and Henry Rasmussen, Fremont. Steven Daehling was the ringbearer, and lighting the candles were Dennis Knorr and Gary Knorr.

"And-clipped Chantilly lace over white satin fashioned the bride's gown. Petal points of the lace formed the Sabrina neckline of the long-sleeved bodice of lace, and the widely-flaring skirt was accented at the back by a cascade of lace and tulle ruffles which extended into a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a coronet of pearl-trimmed lace, and she carried an arrangement of pale yellow roses.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the Ulica City Auditorium, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to the Ozarks. Mrs. Daehling wore for traveling a red wool ensemble with white and black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Daehling will reside at Fremont. The bride has made her home in Lincoln where she was employed.

we'll roll up our sleeves and get down to business.

CAMPUS circles of not too long ago as well as town groups will be interested in the latest news of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Edee (Sheila Grainger) and their young daughter, Alix. The Edees now are back in civilian life and have moved from Savannah, Ga., where Lt. Edee served on the Adjutant General's staff, to Atlanta, Ga., where they plan to reside permanently. In fact, Mr. and Mrs. Edee and their daughter have moved into their newly purchased home on Coland Drive, NW.
We also heard that Mrs. Edee's mother, Mrs. Robert L. Ferguson, will be going to Atlanta late in November to spend Thanksgiving with her son-in-law and daughter, and young Alix.

UNDERSTAND that Mrs. Bryan Davis, the former Pat Cooper, arrived from Colorado Springs on Sunday evening to remain until Thursday as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cooper. From Lincoln Mrs. Davis will go to Dallas, Tex., to join Col. Davis, who, at the moment, is visiting his family in St. Petersburg, Fla.—and in Dallas the Davises will celebrate their 11th wedding anniversary before returning to Colorado Springs.

Afternoon Wedding

MRS. HARVEY MARTENS

Spreading arrangements of white chrysanthemums, and lighted candles in seven-branched holders appointed the chancel of the First Presbyterian Church in Pawnee City for the wedding of Miss Barbara Colwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Barr Colwell of Pawnee, City, and Harvey Arthur Martens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Martens of Iroquois, S.D., which took place on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7. The aisles of the church were marked with clusters of white chrysanthemums caught with satin bows. The Rev. Lloyd A. Jackson solemnized the 4 o'clock ceremony, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Ross Thiemann, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Joel E. Babcock of Sidney; Nelson R. Jensen, Jr., and H. Tracy Huston.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of pure silk peau de soie, and lace. Lace fashioned the long-sleeved, sculptured bodice in which a Sabrina neckline was patterned with pearls and sequins, and the wide skirt, completed with a chapel train, was given added bouffancy by a pouf back. Her tiered veil of illusion was held to the head with a plateau hat dotted with sequins and pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Following a reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. Martens and his bride left for a honeymoon trip through the Smoky Mountains, and on to Washington, D.C. where they will reside at 1701 16th St. NW.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, and Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. Martens is a graduate of South Dakota State College, Brookings, and received his Master's Degree in public administration at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y. He now is working towards his doctorate at the American University in Washington, D.C.

Victor Hoffman of Fremont, and Arthur Bangert, organist, played the wedding music. Mr. Bangert also accompanied the vocalist, Miss Irene Kruger.

As the matron of honor, Mrs. Darrell Daehling of Staplehurst appeared in a frock of sapphire blue taffeta completed by a full overskirt of matching blue net. Her headband and mitts of net were embroidered with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of blue-tinted carnations. Two hundred invitations were issued for the wedding of Miss Marilyn Jean Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gordon, and Richard C. Sloan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. 'Old Stalinist' Rakosi May Be Tried VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Is Matyas Rakosi, the deposed "old Stalinist" dictator of Hungary, going to be brought to trial for the execution and imprisonment of innocent people he had condemned in purge trials?

At the honorable rebuff of some of Rakosi's most illustrious purge victims in Budapest, Hungary, Deputy Premier Antal Apró, speaking in behalf of the Hungarian Communist government and party said:

"There never was a more tragic duty than ours—rehabilitating our dead comrades whom we cannot resurrect. We deeply regret that we believed in malicious slanders that led to their martyrdom. We have called to account and will call to account, those who were responsible for their fate."

Titoists
Apró spoke over the coffins of former Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk and three other top-ranking Communists who were executed seven years ago for alleged treason and "Titoism." By his own admission, when he was forced to resign as party boss last July, Rakosi was largely responsible for these deaths and for other violations of "Socialist legality."

Following up Apró's funeral oration, Radio Budapest said Sunday: "Stalinism in Hungary has collapsed like a house of cards... The victims were delivered up by the Rakosi cult."

This seemed to point a finger right at Rakosi, who pleaded that at 64 he was a sick old man when he was forced to resign. Hungarian sources said he did not really want to quit, but had adopted a Stalin-like plan to purge his opposition when the Kremlin told him he must step down to appease Yugoslavia's President Tito and bring some kind of peace in Hungarian Communist party ranks.

Medical Help?
After his ouster Rakosi went to Russia, ostensibly for medical treatment and rest. His Hungarian successors began taking his name off factories and streets. He has not made any recent public appearances.

The Rakosi question was the latest of many regarding the satellites and Tito's Yugoslavia which are intriguing Western diplomats here, in a period regarded as the most momentous since Soviet party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced Stalin in his secret speech before the Soviet party Congress in February.

The belief here is that President Tito has agreed to accept Erno Geroe, Rakosi's successor as Hungarian party boss, even though Geroe also was a Stalinist. Tito met him at the Yalta Communist party last week arranged by Khrushchev. Geroe made plain when he took over from Rakosi last July that he would go all out to make things up with Tito. This was affirmed by an announcement Friday that Geroe and Hungarian Premier Andras Hegedus would visit Belgrade Oct. 15 for formal talks with Tito. Geroe now is talking with Soviet leaders in Moscow.

One question here was whether Moscow had given Tito a free hand as a "fuehrer" in the Balkans and Eastern Europe. Would the satellites be permitted to follow Tito's independent "road to socialism" or would the Kremlin old guard apply the brake on liberalization?

Long, Long Shot
TOKYO (INS)—Racing officials at Himeji in central Japan announced the longest shot of the year—$403 for a wager of 28 cents. The long shot winner was a horse named King, a habitual loser, who beat Lucky Kamikaze and six others.

STAN DELAPLANE'S POSTCARD

The curious thing about this campaign is it seems to be all about vice presidents. Ike and Adlai are just along for the ride.

"Are you for Nixon or Kefauver?" "I don't know," my friends demand.

Obviously, we must rearrange our whole thinking if this is the way politics is going these days. We must study the Veep situation.

Vice presidents are fascinating because they have to be everything the President is not.

A vice president should come from the South and have a strong western following. A part Navajo named Stonewall Jackson with a close kin in Seattle would make a good Veep candidate.

If the President is educated, the Veep should be a boy who did his sums on the back of a shovel.

When the President announces he loves mince pie, the Veep should come out for collard greens and side meat.

When I was running around in short pants, I was informed that I could be President.

"Any boy in this room can be President," said the history teacher.

MORRIS CHARGES GOVERNOR'S STATEMENT 'DISTORTED' LAW

George L. Morris, Independent candidate for governor, charged Sunday that Governor Victor Anderson "has distorted the meaning of a Nebraska law to justify his unauthorized actions."

Morris issued a statement commenting on Anderson's latest statement on his use of a state airplane to transport him to the Republican national convention in San Francisco in August.

Morris declared Anderson stated that "Section 3-106 of the Nebraska Statutes authorizes him to use any state plane, at any time, at no cost whatever."

The Independent candidate further stated, "There is no authority in this statute, for the Governor to use a state plane for private purposes."

Morris said the statute reads: "Such aircraft shall be subject at all times to the written orders of the Governor for use and service in any branch of state government with the expense to be paid by the department."

"No department of state government was served," Morris continued, "when Governor Anderson used a state plane to take two of his political buddies and himself to a national political convention to which he was not even a delegate. Neither was any department of state government served when he used a state plane to take his family to Oklahoma to see a relative graduate."

"Still Owes State"

Morris contended that Anderson "still owes the state the difference in operating costs and what he actually paid, approximately for the California trip alone, and he should be restrained from further unauthorized use of state aircraft."

Morris said Anderson "also stated that he has not traveled for pleasure during his term of office. He has certainly traveled for his own private purposes. The pleasure involved would depend on his own state of mind. Governor Anderson is trying to mislead the people."

Governor Paid $362

Upon his return from the Republican national convention at San Francisco, Governor Anderson stated he had paid the state the total of $362.50 for the use of the plane.

Anderson stated at that time that at the going rate of $15 an hour the fare totaled $262.50 but he paid $100 additional so "there would be no question about it."

The Governor also said he had paid the pilot Harold Hessel-

$159.20 for his expenses on the trip which Hesselflow made during his vacation.

After the trip to Oklahoma in May of this year, Anderson announced he had paid the state $200 for the use of the plane.

MORRIS CHARGES GOVERNOR'S STATEMENT 'DISTORTED' LAW

George L. Morris, Independent candidate for governor, charged Sunday that Governor Victor Anderson "has distorted the meaning of a Nebraska law to justify his unauthorized actions."

Morris issued a statement commenting on Anderson's latest statement on his use of a state airplane to transport him to the Republican national convention in San Francisco in August.

Morris declared Anderson stated that "Section 3-106 of the Nebraska Statutes authorizes him to use any state plane, at any time, at no cost whatever."

The Independent candidate further stated, "There is no authority in this statute, for the Governor to use a state plane for private purposes."

Morris said the statute reads, "Such aircraft shall be subject at all times to the written orders of the Governor for use and service in any branch of state government with the expense to be paid by the department."

"No department of state government was served," Morris continued, "when Governor Anderson used a state plane to take two of his political buddies and himself to a national political convention to which he was not even a delegate. Neither was any department of state government served when he used a state plane to take his family to Oklahoma to see a relative graduate."

'Still Owes State'
Morris contended that Anderson "still owes the state the difference in operating costs and what he actually paid, approximately for the California trip alone, and he should be restrained from further unauthorized use of state aircraft."

Morris said Anderson "also stated that he has not traveled for pleasure during his term of office. He has certainly traveled for his own private purposes. The pleasure involved would depend on his own state of mind. Governor Anderson is trying to mislead the people."

Governor Paid $362
Upon his return from the Republican national convention at San Francisco, Governor Anderson stated he had paid the state the total of $362.50 for the use of the plane.

Anderson stated at that time that at the going rate of $15 an hour the fare totaled $262.50 but he paid $100 additional so "there would be no question about it."

The Governor also said he had paid the pilot Harold Hessenflow

$159.20 for his expenses on the trip which Hessenflow made during his vacation.

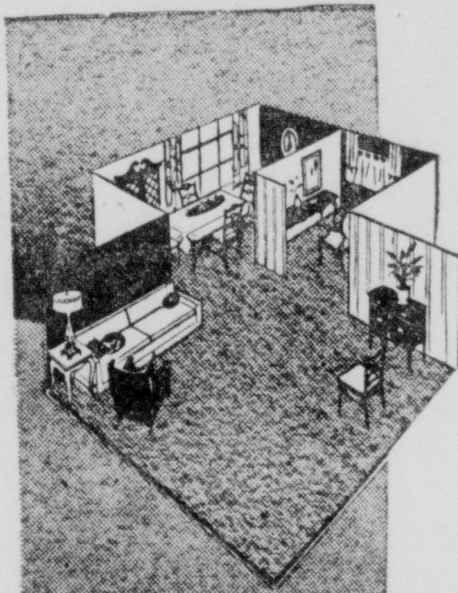

After the trip to Oklahoma in May of this year, Anderson announced he had paid the state $20 for the use of the plane.

Yankees Clobber Brooklyn, 6-2

Sturdivant Gave Yanks Life

(Phil Rizzuto, all-time Yankee shortstop and veteran of nine world series, is covering the World Series for the International News Service and The Lincoln Star.)

By PHIL RIZZUTO
NEW YORK (INS) — Young Tom Sturdivant gave the Yankees a big lift Sunday, and now I'm more certain than ever that this World Series will go the full seven games.
I look for another Yankee win Monday, because they really seem to own the Dodgers when they play at Yankee Stadium. Then if they can take one of the last two in Brooklyn, my pre-series prediction will stand up all the way.
Sturdivant showed a lot of courage the way he hung in there and pitched in the clutch. He could have been in plenty of trouble, because he had men on base in eight of the nine innings, and the leadoff man got on seven times.
But by giving Casey Stengel a full-route job for the second straight day, Tom really took the strain off the Yankee pitching staff.

Don Larsen should pitch another good game Monday, because he usually goes well in the stadium. And if they can beat Sal Maglie, that will be a really big one for the Yanks.
Not much has been said about Billy Martin, but in his own steady way he's having a fine series—just as he always does.
His fourth-inning single was the big hit of the game, breaking the tie and ruining the Dodger strategy of walking Enos Slaughter to pitch to Billy.
Both Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer hit tremendous shots for their homers. Odd thing, that's the only time in the past two days that Mantle has hit a ball out of the infield. But when he did unload one, it really traveled.
Bauer's homer into left field stands was rather surprising because he hit a sidearm pitch, and they give him trouble.
Sturdivant did a good job of stopping Duke Snider and Gil Hodges, except for the fourth inning when they put hits together for the first Dodger run. Whitey Ford cooled them off Saturday, too, and it looks like the Yankees will win whenever they stop those two.

They're the Dodgers big guns in this series.
Roy Campanella had quite a day with two singles and two walks, although Slaughter might have caught his ninth-inning hit if it hadn't been for the sun in left field. He was late starting for the ball.
That's the worst sun field in the league this time of year, and it must be particularly tough for Slaughter, who played right field most of his life.
You have to take that glaring sun into consideration regarding Andy Carey's fielding at third. It hits the third baseman right in the eyes, too, and you can lose sight of a high bouncing ball.
It was nice that the crowd gave Andy a hand when he came up in the seventh after all the trouble he's been having. And I know being able to respond with a hit right then made him feel much better.

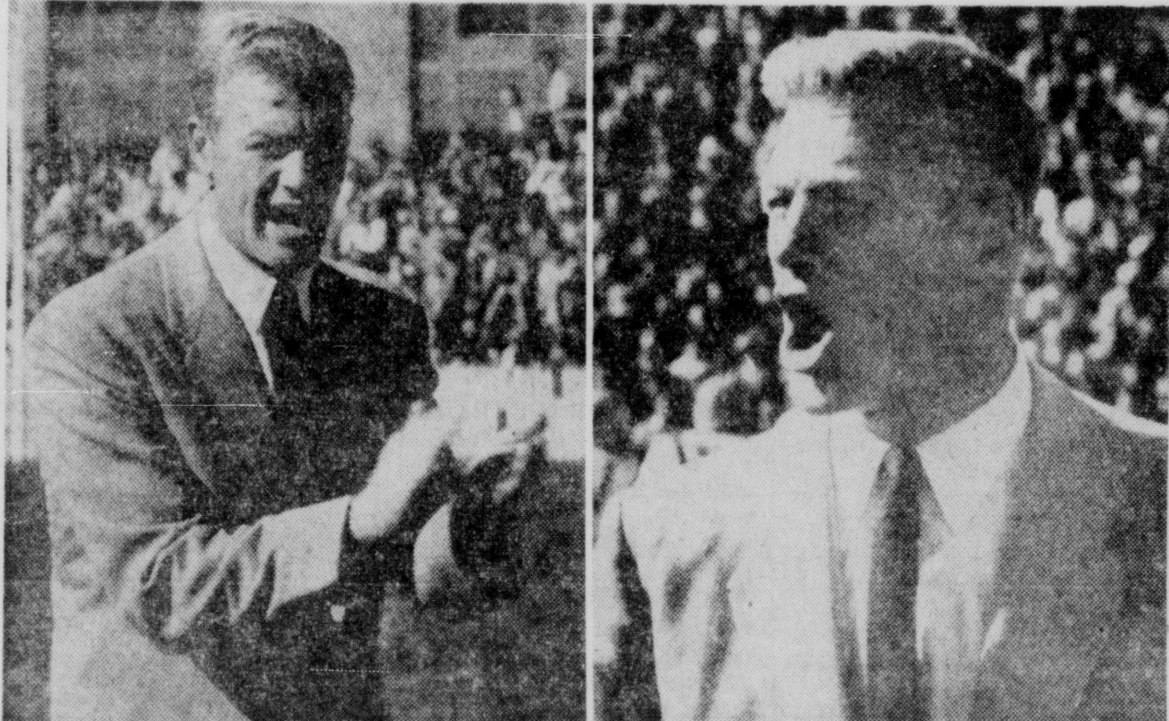

Wasn't Hit—Just Chasing Foul Tip

Home Runs Pep Yanks' Series Tying Victory

By BOB CONSIDINE
NEW YORK (INS) — The Yankees swarmed all over Brooklyn's winded Bums Sunday, clubbed them 6-2, and tied up the World Series at two games apiece.
Mickey Mantle hit one out of sight in darkest center field, Hank Bauer mashed one into the left field seats, and for the second straight day Casey Stengel got first rate pitching.
Sunday's winning thrower, a long, strong young rightpaw named Tom Sturdivant dismayed the Bums with a princely assortment of knuckle balls, a curve that turned corners without holding out its hand, and a fast ball he fired all the way from over his right shoulder to off his hip.
Tom held Brooklyn to six hits, bore down so hard in the clutch that eight Brooks perished on bases, and was troubled only in the ninth—when Brooklyn woke up a drowsing crowd of 69,705 with Jackie Robinson's double, two walks and Roy Campanella's soggy lob into short left after one was out. That scored Robinson.
But Sturdivant broke a truly wicked curve over the plate to retire Randy Jackson, one of Brooklyn's deplorable bevy of pinch-hitters, and coaxed Junior Gilliam into skying out to Mantle to end the rebellion.
So the bloomer boys are back where they started last Wednesday—as level as a dowager's stare. Brooklyn, which won the first two, hopes to get itself unstalled by means of Sal Maglie, the elder statesman of its pitching staff who won the first game so valiantly.
The Yanks will try Don Larsen again. He was the first of seven pitchers Casey used in the grisly second game, when everything went black. Don blew a 6-0 lead that day.
Walter Alston picked Carl Erskine to start for Brooklyn Sunday. Joe Collins fell upon him for a double in the first inning. Yogi Berra then beat a single into center to give the Yanks a 1-0 lead against the slender righthander who holds the series record of 14 strikeouts.
Duke Snider's bat, silent as a tomb Saturday, spoke angrily in the fourth with a double to right. Sturdivant worked very hard on Jackie Robinson and finally made that great competitor lift up a ball which Berra gathered in after a straining run to the backstop.
But Sturdivant couldn't get by Gil Hodges. The Dodger first baseman slapped a knuckler up the middle for a single that tied the score 1-1.
Erskine met his downfall in the fourth. He walked Mantle to open the Yankee inning. Berra, he fanned, with Mantle scooting safely to second on the final pitch.
It was then deemed discreet to pass Country Slaughter, the old gentleman who assassinated the Bums Saturday. That brought up Billy Martin, who plays World Series games as if his life depended on every move.
Martin hit a very hard line drive single to left center, scoring Mantle with the run that put the Yanks in front for keeps and moving the fleet-footed Slaughter to third. Slaughter loped home on Gil McDougald's fly to Snider.
Alston sent another boy to do a man's job in the fifth. An error by the jittery Andy Carey and Campanella's strong single past Carey promised happy dividends.
But Alston's choice of pinch-hitters, Al Walker, panned out sourly. Walker rolled into a double play that put an unpatchable hole in the rally. He was the first of three pinch hitters who made a mockery of the name during the game.
The home runs of Mantle and Bauer were not needed, but they pepped up the rather drab proceedings mightily. Mantle's blast in the sixth off Ed Roebuck traveled perhaps 440 to 450 feet before exploding in the centerfield stands.
It was his second of the series and seventh in series experience. Bauer's seventh inning poke was a more modest belt but quite pleasing to its author. It was his first home run in seven World Series, 36 games and 112 times at bat.
It was Sturdivant's first series start. The way things are going it won't be his last. He treated the Bums as if the word began with a small b.

Creighton Prep May Be Nearing End Of Reign As State Football Leader

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Writer
Creighton Prep, at the head of The Star's Class A high school football ratings since the start of the 1955 season, may be coming to the end of its rope.
Prep, idle last week, is a short notch ahead of Omaha North in this week's chart. It may be the last week on top for the Junior Bluejays.
Prep meets powerhouse North next week in what could mark the end of a 34-game unbeaten string for the Jays. North, sparked by fleet Virgil Williams, broke an Omaha scoring record last week in burying Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson 64-7.
Many observers feel that Prep, always tough in the big ones, will get by North to keep that remarkable string intact. Last year Prep beat a good Viking team 21-20.
The Prep-North game will, in all likelihood, settle the state championship. However, both clubs have some tough ones after their Oct. 12 meeting.
North must play Tech, Lincoln High, Scottsbluff and South. Prep meets Abraham Lincoln, Omaha Cathedral, Central and Benson. Only Central figures to give Prep trouble but South and Tech both may make it hot for North.
Tech was given a 33-0 jolt by South Saturday night after holding Prep to 13-15 the week before. Prep had opened with a two-touchdown win over South and Tech appeared to be stronger than South prior to their meeting.

The win moved South to third place in the ratings. Fremont, each week looking like the only really strong team outside of Omaha, belted Benson 27-0 and advanced from fifth to fourth, the spot South had occupied.
Tech slipped to fifth after being third behind the "Big Two," Prep and North. Central conquered Council Bluffs Abraham Lincoln 39-13 to remain sixth.
Hastings bowled over Columbus 51-7 to stay in seventh place. The undefeated Tigers, held down by Fairbury in the opening game, appear to be on the move.
Lincoln High, usually a team to be reckoned with, lost to Grand Island and is thus assured of its worst season since 1949. The Links have lost three and won one—over ord, but Missouri has yet to enter the loop chase and Nebraska will take a spotless record into the game with Kansas State this week.

Huskers' Victory Over Iowa State Was Important Psychological Win

A review of Saturday's thriller with Iowa State brings these thoughts:
Hollywood couldn't have supplied a more spine-tingling finish. All the drama of victory and defeat, joy, anger, frustration and heart-sick agony was packed into one second as a ball was juggled and then kicked.
Iowa State has improved, but only on defense. The Cyclones offense still leaves a lot to be desired.
Much of the same can be said for the Cornhuskers. Judging from the Iowa State game, Elliott's emphasis on defense has paid off handsomely.
Except for the mid-air fumble interception by Marv Walter, the Cyclones would have been blanked. And it was Nebraska's pressing defense when the chips were down that forced Terry Ingram to botch a pitch-out, thereby setting the stage for the winning field goal.
Offensively, the Huskers moved the ball well at times, but couldn't cap a drive with a tally.
That phase of their game will draw quite a bit of attention this week as they prepare for Kansas State.
The Wildcats have been trounced two weeks in a row, 34-0 by Colorado and 66-0 by Oklahoma. But they're always tough at Memorial Stadium and a top offensive bow by Nebraska will be needed.
Main worry here in the condition of Quarterback Roy Stinnett. He sprained an ankle against the Cy-

Sports Editor, The Star
Pete Elliott is a firm believer in leprechauns, good fairies, rabbits feet, crossed fingers, guardian angels—and George Harshman's right toe.
The Nebraska coach got his initiation into the "Relax, We'll Beat Iowa State Somehow Club" Saturday afternoon as the Cornhuskers continued their 11-year jinx over Iowa State with a 9-7 victory.
It was Harshman's 15-yard field goal with 43 seconds left in the game that turned the trick.
The victory was fine (they always are), but more important to Elliott and the Huskers was the psychological lift.
Pete has stressed the importance of fighting harder the fourth quarter than in the first and his point was driven home Saturday.
It was a vital win for the Cornhuskers and should help them a lot in future contests.
Aside from the fact that three Big Seven teams won and three lost, the most significant event of the week was Oklahoma's 66-0 trouncing of Kansas State.
The Sooners, as expected are loaded and unstoppable. But the rest of the conference appears set for a photo finish in the Orange Bowl race.
The Huskers won by two points over Iowa State and Colorado nipped Kansas by one—that's playing it close to the belt in any league.
Colorado has the jump on the second-place battle with a 2-0 records, but Missouri has yet to enter the loop chase and Nebraska will take a spotless record into the game with Kansas State this week.

Main worry here in the condition of Quarterback Roy Stinnett. He sprained an ankle against the Cyclones and his loss would put a severe strain on the signal-calling department.

The only other conference game this week has Kansas—still looking for a win—at Iowa State. The Jayhawks appear to have more offensive punch than the Cyclones and could take advantage of the Iowa's letdown after the heart-breaking loss to Nebraska.
Missouri, also winless in three tries, should break into the win column when North Dakota State visits Columbia.
Oklahoma will be a heavy favorite to roll on against Texas, while Colorado hosts a long-time rival, Colorado A & M.

Boxer McMahon Dies In Fire

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Richard J. McMahon, one-time contender for the world's welterweight boxing title, died Sunday in a fire that heavily damaged the apartment house where he lived.
McMahon, who fought under the name of Richy Mack, failed in an attempt to win the world welterweight title from Barney Ross in the 1930s, relatives said.
A native of Minneapolis, he had been a fight trainer here since leaving the army 18 months ago.

HANK BAUER—"I waited seven years for that homerun. We feel a lot better now about taking it all."
MICKEY MANTLE—"Sure I was limping, I just do that to get everybody nervous."
TOM STURDIVANT—"I'm still numb. This was the biggest game of my life."
CASEY STENGEL—"Yogi (Berra) told me Sturdivant had good stuff so I left him in. I almost made a move."
WALTER ALSTON—"Our hitters just bogged down again. It's up to (Sal) Maglie again."

Cooler Today
NEW YORK (AP) — It may be slightly on the cool side but otherwise Monday will be another fine day for the fifth game of the World Series according to the Weather Bureau.
"Fair and continued cool Monday with afternoon temperatures in the low 60s" was the forecast.
Generally fair with temperatures on the cool side also were predicted for Tuesday and Wednesday.
Don Townsend of Elizabeth, N. J. has been unbeaten in 13 cross-country meets for St. John's University of Brooklyn over the last two seasons.

MAGLIE, LARSEN BATTLE TODAY

NEW YORK (INS)—Four games older and $693,561.63 richer, the gentlemen who will represent Brooklyn and the Bronx at baseball go against each other for the fifth time today at Yankee Stadium.
Sal Maglie, first game winner, will be pitching for Brooklyn. But the Yanks, having come up from an 0-2 deficit in games to tie the count, are now favored to de-horse the Brooks as world champs.
Don Larsen, a face in the crowd of pitchers the Yanks used in the second game, will throw for that side.
The players turn amateur with today's game. They share only in the first four games of a series, and now can ponder just how to split the winning or losing share of the $693,561.63 players' pot.
Odds Shift To Yanks
NEW YORK (AP)—Now that they have squared the World Series at 2-2, the New York Yankees are favored all the way.
After the Yanks had won Sunday's game 6-2, the bookmakers made the Bronx Bombers the 3 and 2 choice to win the series. They also are favored 13-10 to beat Sal Maglie in the fifth game today.

YOU BE THE QUARTERBACK

By WARREN GAER
Head Football Coach,
Drake University

You are quarterbacking Texas Christian against Alabama. The Crimson Tide is kicking off at the start of the third quarter of a 12-12 game. You and your great left halfback are standing behind the goal line as Bama kicks off a long rolling ball that is coming in your direction. But so is the great tackling Alabama left end, a large, tough, not overly agile performer.

As the ball comes toward you, you see sudden daylight to your left with the field to your right spotted with tacklers and potential blockers. What should you do? Rate these choice 1, 2 and 4:

Touch the ball down.
Reverse or lateral to the great left half.
Fake the tackler and hope to get through that opening to the left.
Fake the tackler and go right because you run better to the right.

Grid Cards Pull Second Upset

By DON WEISS
The Associated Press

The Chicago Cardinals, pro football's newest upset specialists, spilled the title-hungry New York Giants 35-27 Sunday to stand alone as the only unbeaten team in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

Following up their 9-7 shocker over the champion Cleveland Browns of last week, the Cards took the lead on Dick Lane's 66-yard run with an intercepted pass on the final play of the first half and moved comfortably ahead with two more touchdowns in the third period.

The loss dropped the Giants into a four-way tie for second place with Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, all of whom played Saturday night.

An upset also featured Sunday's play in the Western Conference, the San Francisco 49ers rallying

The Knights, who have now lost four in a row, hit the road again Friday night to play strong Class B contender Seward there.

Had "On" Day

Lamar McHan, the former Arkansas ace who has been a spotty player at best the last two seasons, had one of his "on" days for the Cardinals against the Giants at Comiskey Park in Chicago. The husky quarterback ran for two touchdowns and passed for the two others. Fullback Mel Triplett scored three more touchdowns for New York, giving him six for two games.

San Francisco graduated from field goals in the first half to touchdowns after the intermission to fashion its upset of the Rams. At halftime, the 49ers led 12-9 with four field goals by Gordy Soltau accounting for all of their points. After the half, Joe Perry bolted 23 yards for one touchdown and Hugh McElhenry scored on two short plunges.

Quarterbacks Ed Brown and George Blanda handled the brunt of the Bears' attack against the Packers. Brown threw two touchdown passes and picked up a fumble and ran for another touchdown. Blanda kicked three field goals and added four conversions to run his league record of consecutive extra points to 150.

Bob Rosburg Wins San Diego Open

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—Bob Rosburg of San Francisco, who never had finished in the money in four previous golf tournaments here, shot a 7-under-par 65 Sunday to win the $15,000 San Diego Open.

The pudgy player, two shots behind 54-hole leader Dow Finsterwald, scored 32-33 on the Singing Hills Course to add to his previous rounds of 70-66-67. Rosburg's 270 total was 18 strokes under par.

Finsterwald, of Bedford Heights, Ohio, faded to a 2-over-par 74 for a total 277.

Zatopek Wins But Not Spectacularly

VIENNA (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek, winner of three Olympic gold medals in 1952, took part Sunday in an "international 10,000-meter run for the first time since his recent operation and won in an unspectacular time, Radio Prague reported.

He was clocked in 29:33.4 minutes and finished a full lap ahead of the runner-up.

POINT BLANK
By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

Miami druggists are looking forward to one of the largest New Year's Day sales of aspirin tablets in history.

There's always a brisk sale of headache powders in that luxurious Florida city where gay tourists and local life-lovers revel in toasting Pappy Old Year and the wee-toddler.

But this year, there's expected to be a much heavier than usual run on the pain relievers—and the charge will be led by the Orange Bowl Committee.

Picture, if you will, the prospects these gentlemen face.

They have given their Chamber of Commerce honor to ballyhoo with all their might this annual football classic.

It's good for business, they shout gleefully. This year it looks like they are going to get the business.

In order to compete with the hated Rose Bowl, these football lovers inked a juicy contract with the Big Seven and the Atlantic Coast Conference, both of whom promised to supply a team for the festive occasion.

What they didn't foresee was that the West Coast itself would wreck what was left of the Rose Bowl after the Big Ten had made a farce of the Grand-daddy of 'em all.

So now the Orange Bowl is in the unenviable position of promoting a lemon.

The Big Seven will transport a team to Miami, to be sure. But the good committeemen of Miami no doubt are conscious of the fact that the team that makes the grade will not have a proud record.

Missouri was the pre-season favorite to finish second and, since it hasn't played a conference game, still rates the role because the Tigers look formidable.

But Missouri already has lost three games.

Nebraska, second-place finisher the last two years, has one leg on a repeat but will be hard pressed the rest of the way. And the Huskers have been beaten soundly by Ohio State and their other non-league win was over South Dakota—which has been beaten by Augustana.

Then there's Colorado, winner of two conference games, but beaten by Oregon—which has lost to penalty wrecked UCLA.

Not excluded from the running are Kansas—two losses and a tie—and Iowa State—one win, two losses—with the win coming over Denver which subsequently lost to Wyoming.

Not exactly a bright picture. But the Atlantic Coast Conference favorites haven't been set-

4. Reverse or lateral to great left half. Worst call. No fancy stuff behind that goal line. The score is tied.

3. Fake and go right. No. You couldn't expect to make it out to the 20 going right.

2. Fake and go left. It's a chance for a good gain but definitely second choice.

1. Touch the ball down. Safest and best call. Take it on the 20.

Calhoun, Webb Risk Ring Ratings

The Associated Press

Spider Webb of Chicago and Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., two talented young middle-weight contenders, risk their ratings against tough opponents in fights this week. In an important non-television bout, Tony DeMarco and Kid Gavilan, a couple of ex-welterweight champions, collide at Boston Saturday night.

Webb, 24-year-old ex-GI and member of the 1952 Olympic team, seeks his 14th straight victory Wednesday night when he takes on Charlie Cotton of Toledo at the Chicago Stadium.

The Spider handed Calhoun his first defeat after 23 wins at Chicago Aug. 29 to earn a No. 7 berth in the ratings. It was the 16th triumph in 17 fights for Webb. Cotton, twice conqueror of hard-hitting Joey Giardello and a split decision victim of Calhoun's this year, has a 41-11-1 record.

Calhoun, still smarting over his paper-thin defeat to Webb, is favored to get back in the win column against strong John L. Sullivan of England at the Cleveland Arena Friday night, NBC TV, radio, 8 p.m., CST. The 22-year-old Calhoun, son of an Atlanta minister, is ranked as the sixth contender despite his loss to Webb. Rory has kayoted 12 foes, Sullivan, 23, has a 66-20-3 record, including 35 kayos.

DeMarco, now the No. 1 contender and in line for a shot at champion Carmen Basilio, is favored over the aging Gavilan, now unranked in the 147-pound division. They meet in a 10-rounder in DeMarco's home town of Boston.

It was just one of those wild plays that are ideal for rule infractions and the officials are too busy watching too many things to see all the action.

Suffice to say: It looked like a clip, but the officials didn't see it. And the importance of the play diminished rapidly after George Harshman's field goal.

A. J. Lewandowski, Nebraska ticket master, has found a way to please the fans—but it's tough on Pete Elliott and the Huskers. Early last week Lew advertised a plea for fans to remain seated until the end of the game. The most frequent complaint he gets is the one about folks arriving late and leaving early.

But Saturday's crowd stayed until the final gun—their attention held by a great battle. Most of those who sat in on the dramatic ending probably felt it was worth the delay.

Death Of Wauneta's First Citizen Marked By Plaque

WAUNETA, Neb. —The death of Wauneta's first white citizen, George Rowley, is marked by a plaque donated by Cliff Rowley of Lincoln and Guy Sims of Louisburg, Mo.

Rowley is a nephew of George and Mrs. Sims' parents were the second family to occupy the Rowley home.

The plaque reads: "Near this spot stood the Rowley sod house. Built in 1875, it was the first habitation in Chase County.

"On Oct. 3, 1878, while on his way home to protect his family, Rowley was killed by Cheyenne Indians during the epic trek of Dull Knife's band attempting to reach their old home."

Rowley's wife and year-old son escaped the Indian raid.

The Wauneta Jaycees have bought a monument that is placed at the site of the first dwelling and the plaque was presented at formal ceremonies by Rowley and Sims.

Cliff Rowley Presents Memorial

Thousands—in fact estimates go as high as 70,000—are expected to turn out for the politically-favored farm show, which is held under the auspices of the National Mechanical Corn Picking Contest Assn.

Columbus sponsors of the event have a well-planned schedule which allows the public time to see agricultural equipment displays and demonstrations, while not missing the headline events.

The two-day event begins Thursday morning with the Nebraska single-row picker contest; the two-row picker competition is scheduled 75 minutes later. There'll also be an old-fashioned hand-picking demonstration. So far there are 14 entries in the state competition.

In the afternoon, there'll be entertainment on the huge stage set up for the Nixon-Kefauver talks, a picker-sheller demonstration and awarding of prizes to the winners of the state contest.

Thursday night, a giant electrical parade is scheduled for the downtown Columbus area. A dance will follow and Miss Gail Drahota, an Iowa school teacher, will be crowned queen of the National Mechanical Corn Picking Contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Drahota of Columbus. Her father is noted as an Aberdeen-Angus cattle breeder.

The Friday activity begins at 9 a.m. with the national single-row picker competition. The two-row picker event starts at 10:15 a.m., with a brief hand-husking demonstration to follow.

Addresses

Vice President Nixon's address is scheduled for 11 a.m. It will mark his first visit to Columbus. Sen. Kefauver, who speaks at 2:45 p.m., visited Columbus in March of 1952, to boost his Democratic presidential primary bid in Nebraska.

Grainton Woman Turns Necessity Into Paying Hobby

GRAINTON, Neb. — What was once a necessity has turned into a profitable hobby for Mrs. Everett Carter of Grainton, who makes odd-sized shirts for men.

Mrs. Carter started making shirts for her three tall sons when she discovered that ready-made shirts with long-enough sleeves were hard to find.

When word of Mrs. Carter's hobby spread she started getting requests to make shirts. She now has a profitable business at home and has made more than 175 shirts.

She makes dress shirts, sports shirts, but the most popular are the western style shirts. Her son Gary, 14, helps his mother in designing the shirts and draws the designs.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.* Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.
